ITALIAN LINER SENT TO BOTTOM BY BOAT FLYING AUSTRIAN FLAG

It Is Not Known Whether Attack Was Unwarned—Opinion Current That Submarine Was German

SERIOUS ISSUE THREATENS IN CAPITAL

Washington Awaits Facts It Not Being Known Whether Any Americans Were On Boat

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 10.—The Italian liner Ancona was sunk by an Austro-Hungarian submarine while trying to escape. It was announced officially here today, on the strength of what was termed "reliable information."

Owing to the attempt to escape, it was stated, the submarine was forced to use its guns.

ROME, via Havre, Nov. 10.—Americans are among the missing passengers on the Italian liner Ancona torpedoed late Tuesday by an Austrian submarine, it was learned definitely here today.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—About three hundred persons, mostly women and children, with possibly several Americans among them, perished when a submarine flying the Austrian flag shelled and sunk the Italian liner Ancona off Bizerta, Tunis, according to Lloyd's today.

Of the ship's company of 582—422 passengers and a crew of 160—only 279 are definitely accounted for as saved and of these many are wounded.

Following swiftly on news of the Ancona's destruction came a report from Madrid that two German sub-

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—At least two Americans are believed to have been aboard the Italian liner Ancona sunk by a submarine yesterday. L. Giger, who gave his address as the Bronx section of New York, told officials of the Italian line today that he had a letter from his uncle, E. Giger, an American, stating that he and his wife would sail for New York on the Ancona.

The general passenger agent also received a telegraphic inquiry from Philadelphia about the safety of a Mr. and Mrs. Canfield-Jones, who took passage on the Ancona. Other inquiries were made about a Mrs. Sossoli of Washington, D. C., and about Adelaide Stangheri and Filbert Mazzaroli of Baltimore. Officials of the line were not certain but presumed that these four also are American citizens.

marines had been sunk by English warships in the Mediterranean near the Gibraltar strait.

Whether or not the torpedoed liner was attacked without warning or was sunk while attempting to escape is not certainly known.

From the fact, however, that a Rome message says the submarine fired 100 shots at the big passenger craft it is surmised that the latter was the case.

The survivors were landed at Bizerta, Cape Bon, and Ferryville, on the African coast. Many were so badly wounded that they were transferred to hospitals at once. They suffered it is supposed during the shelling of the Ancona and by flying fragments when the torpedo struck the ship.

Undersea Boat German
Whether the undersea boat which sank the liner was Austrian, as implied by her flag, or a German vessel, flying the colors of the allied power, is the subject of much speculation in British circles. Many believed it was a German craft both because German U boats are in the Mediterranean and on account of the coincidence of the reported sinking by British cruisers of two such vessels near Gibraltar soon after the Ancona was attacked.

Among the Ancona's passengers was Prince Cassano, the famous

COUNTY ROADS TO ABSORB $13,000 FOR MAINTENANCE

These Are Figures of Road Commissioner Hintgen in His Annual Report

'OVER HILLS TO THE POOR HOUSE'

Big Chicken Dinner Follows Inspection of County Farm This Afternoon

The sum of $13,000 was this morning asked for by County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen for maintenance of La Crosse county roads for the year 1916. This sum is practically equal to the amount expended for maintenance last year and will be used by Commissioner Hintgen for oiling and repairing roads already built. The sum represents only a part of the appropriation to be asked for county highways and bridges. The road appropriation for the ensuing year has not yet been totaled, and will be entered in the budget of county expenses which will probably be submitted to the board the latter part of this week.

Commissioner Hintgen recommended the maintenance fund in the course of his annual report, read to the board this morning. The report included all work done in the year past and offered suggestions for new work. Commissioner Hintgen backed up many of the suggestions for highway improvements made in the report of the road and bridge committee to the board yesterday.

Off for Poor House
Laden with practically every member of the board of supervisors and accompanied by county officials and reporters, twenty automobiles left the court house at noon today in a driving rain, with the county poor farm as their destination.

In spite of the damp weather, the county junketers had a successful trip. County Poor Commissioner Sol Burdick and his aides formed the receiving line at the county institution. The visitors registered on the visitors' book and following an inspection of the building and grounds, as far as the weather would permit, partook of a chicken dinner.

The diners returned shortly after 1 o'clock and the day's session of the board was resumed at 2 o'clock.

Fight on Physician
A close fight is expected in the county board Friday morning when the election of county physician is made a special order of business. The candidates who are running for the office are Dr. R. E. Flynn, present incumbent; Dr. R. H. Herbert, Dr. Jens Rosholt and Dr. R. H. Gray. Dr. Flynn has held the office for three terms.

Adjourns in Respect of Dead
Yesterday's session of the county board of supervisors came to an abrupt ending at 4:45 o'clock in respect for two county supervisors who have died since the last meeting. Joseph Gale of the north side and Lemuel B. Cox of Onalaska.

Resolutions on the death of the two members were read, and at their conclusion Supervisor W. C. Winter proposed an adjournment. Every member of the board rose to his feet and the business of the day was discontinued. The board will adjourn Friday afternoon until Monday morning.

A report of the poor and insane committee frowned upon the recent proposition of Supervisor J. J. Verchota to establish a public dairy and milk route at the county poor farm. The committee's report stated that the move was deemed impracticable. In a brisk retort Supervisor Verchota, the only socialist member of the board, said that he had not expected his resolution would be adopted, but that he believed it would be a highly practical thing for the institution to do. The board adopted the committee report.

State Road Aid $12,204.15
La Crosse county's share of the $885,000 available this year for county road purposes from the state fund will be $12,204.15. It was announced in a communication from the state highway commission read to the board members yesterday afternoon by County Clerk Bert A. Jolivette. Figures on the 1916 appropriation for roads for La Crosse county are not yet available, having not yet been completed by the road and bridge committee.

Probably the most optimistic highway report ever made to a county board here, and the biggest boost to the "good roads movement" in La Crosse county, was read by Supervisor A. N. Moore, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, yesterday afternoon. The report discussed last summer's automobile tour of the committee, County Clerk Jolivette and County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen. The tour led the party over every highway in the county. The findings of the committee and county officials were

MR. BREWER HOLDS ART CLUB PEOPLE IN ART ADDRESS

Exhibit Room at Washburn Library Packed with Interested Members for Artist's Reception

REIMAN PORTRAIT OF INTEREST

Sketch of Granddad Also Creates Comment and President Coate Outlines Future Plans

With the addition of new members who applied at the door the paid membership of the Art Association of La Crosse was swelled to 267 at the private members' view of the Nicholas R. Brewer exhibit in Washburn library last night, and seventy-five pledged but unpaid members brings the total to 342.

The meeting was inspiring. The room was filled with enthusiastic people who enjoyed the canvases and listened with interest to a pleasant and instructive talk by Mr. Brewer.

The portrait of Mrs. F. A. Reiman and children, recently finished by Mr. Brewer, attracted attention and much favorable comment, while a newly completed view of Granddad, taken from a hitherto untouched angle from Ebner's Coulee, occasioned a great deal of discussion.

In opening the meeting President D. O. Coate reviewed the brief history of the association—it is little more than six months old—and briefly outlined plans for the near future, including the etching exhibit beginning next week, an exhibit of local amateur photography and possibly an exhibit of the early work of the sketch club.

Mr. Brewer complimented the club upon its achievements and the club upon having an association, drawing a glowing picture of the possibilities before it. Then, modestly rejecting Mr. Coate's suggestion that he talk of his own work, he developed an interesting discussion of the history of art beginning in the fourteenth century, following its course from Millet's revolt against the egotism and crass splendor of Napoleon's time to the development of modern art with its conquest of light and more daring use of color. Not the equal of the old masters in inspiration, he credited the present day American artists with being their superiors in technique.

Contrasts Shown
An original Jefferson, borrowed from Mr. Calvin Baker, was employed to draw the contrast between the subdued effects of the older school and the impressionist art now popular with its suffused light, bolder treatment and method of laying on colors in such contrast as to achieve its richer appeal of the beautiful.

A sad picture of artists dying in poverty, their works later to command princely fortunes, was drawn, and in contrast Sargent's sudden rise to fame and fortune, the point illustrated with touching incidents.

Following the address an hour was spent in meeting the artist and informally going over his canvases, which afforded wide variety and display the skill and inspiration of the finished artist.

ENGLAND ACTS IN EFFORT TO PREVENT EXODUS OF MALES
LONDON, Nov. 10.—An order issued yesterday that all Englishmen of military age leaving the country seek passports, and failing to get them, notify the embarkation officer of the fact, is the government's first definite step toward preventing an exodus to escape possible conscription.

To Everywoman
Over four hundred tickets for cake and coffee, sold by the Ibsen club for the bazaar at which, Friday afternoon and evening, they plan to establish a fund for the Young Women's Christian association home, have filled the women with consternation.

They fear that the splendid attendance indicated by the sale of tickets may buy out their stock and have to go home hungry for bargains. So the good ladies of the Ibsen club appeal to the good people of La Crosse to replenish their wares. Needle work, cakes, pies, confections, pots of jelly or jam—anything that the generous guests may wish to purchase in a good cause—these devoted ladies will welcome to swell the fortunes of the "Y. W."

Friday is "baking day," anyway, and you know you are an excellent cook. That reminds one of cookies, and they'll do, too. So rummage your work basket and the pantry and away you go to the Ibsen Club ladies.

SILENT MAN OF MYSTERY DISAPPEARS FROM HOTEL HIS HOME FOR DECADE

"Silent John" Quilligan, of whom his landlord for ten years knows nothing more than his name, has disappeared. The police have been asked to search for him by Oscar G. Doering, proprietor of the Doering hotel, where the room in which he lived his self-contained life is waiting just as he left it.

"Silent John" has not been seen since a day or two before the opening of the inter-state fair. It is significant of his quiet habit that no one knows just what day it was that he walked out of the hotel and failed to come back. It wasn't until the fair had been in progress for two days that Mr. Doering discovered that his quiet boarder had not been occupying his room. And even then he was not much alarmed, for once before "Silent John" disappeared. After a week he was found at a hospital. He had been ill and so, without a word, he had walked out to the hospital and entered.

But the hospitals have been searched again and "Silent John" is not in them. His husky, six-foot body has apparently dropped from the earth.

CARNATIONS RIOT AT THE FUNERAL OF 'BOBBY HOOKS'

Many Remember Armless Flower Vendor and Casket Is Banked with Heaps of Bright Flowers

HE GOES TO THE GRAVE IN STYLE

Five automobiles Escort the Motor Hearse to Cemetery at New Amsterdam

"To the Carnation King," said the motto on a big floral piece which stood at the head of "Bobby Hooks" coffin this morning, when the funeral services were held in the chapel at the undertaking establishment of Tetley, Sletten & Dahl. Over the casket was spread a great spray of bright red carnations, sent from the La Crosse Floral company, where "Bobby Hooks" for years purchased the flowers he sold for a living.

Atlas Lincoln, armless flower vendor, was buried today, and his was a carnation funeral. Many remembered "Bobby." Wreaths of carnations, bouquets, sprays, pillows—all of carnations—banked the casket over which Rev. A. S. Gilbert of the Onalaska Methodist church conducted the brief service. The most notable bouquet was that sent by "the boys" in the places on "Bobby's" familiar round. That was the one dedicated "To the Carnation King."

Perhaps fifty of "Bobby's" friends attended his funeral. One of his relatives was there, L. E. Green of Onalaska, whose wife is "Hooks'" aunt. "Bobby" went to his grave in style. Five automobiles made up the cortege which escorted the motor hearse and its flower-covered burden to the little cemetery at New Amsterdam.

COMMITTEE OF THE COUNTY BOARD TO MEET TREMPLEAU

But Supervisors Are Told That Matters for Consideration Have Nothing to Do with McGilvray Road

A committee of three members of the county board of supervisors will be appointed by Chairman R. W. Davis to confer with a committee of members of the Trempealeau county board for the purpose of discussing matters of importance to both counties.

The committee appointment was ordered in a resolution offered by Supervisor A. N. Moore to the board this morning. Its presentation came as a surprise to the majority of the members, who immediately connected it with the old McGilvray road and bridge fight. A motion was immediately made to table the resolution.

"I am not trying to slip anything over this board," said Supervisor Moore, "and I will say that the meeting will probably not have anything to do with the McGilvray road matter."

Chairman Davis reiterated Supervisor Moore's statement that the committee meeting was proposed for purposes altogether foreign to the road question.

APHASIA VICTIM SENT TO STODDARD

Otto Harte, who was found wandering about the streets of Winona last Thursday night in a famished condition, unable to give his name or speak coherently, was sent yesterday to the home of relatives near Stoddard. The man regained his memory Saturday and told the Winona police that he had a brother living near Stoddard.

VELES RECAPTURED BY FRENCH CLAIM ATHENS DISPATCHES

Bulgarians Reported Badly Defeated by Allied Troops Moving Northward

INVASERS FIGHT GUERRILLAS

Bulgars Join Austro-Germans to Rid Country of Scattered Bands of Serbs

ATHENS, Nov. 10.—The French recaptured the southern Serbian town of Veles from the Bulgarians today, reports stated here today.

A message from the front reported continued fighting at Babuna Pass, northeast of Prilep. It was believed here this was in connection with Serbo-Franco-British operations to clear that part of Serbia completely of the Bulgars. The latter were badly defeated in the Babuna Pass district several days ago and their main body retreated to the eastward.

British troops, moving to reinforce the French at Veles, have captured the Bulgar positions in the Doiran district, eight miles north of the Greco-Serbian frontier, at the point where it is crossed by the railroad and eighteen miles south of the southwestern Bulgarian town of Strumitza.

Veles on the Nish-Salonika railroad is 55 miles northwest from the point where the railroad crosses the Greco-Serbian frontier.

It was to its vicinity that the Franco-British forces drove the Bulgars after the latter's defeat at Babuna Pass, in the Prilep region, it has been the scene of hard fighting for several days.

The Bulgarian position at Veles has been extremely precarious for several hours. The superiority of the French artillery placed the Bulgars at a disadvantage.

Serbs, descending on the Bulgarians through the Kutchanyk defiles, east of Prisrend, have also heavily defeated a Bulgar force which was advancing from Uskub against Prisrend. Uskub is near the Nish-Salonika railroad thirty miles northwest of Veles.

Bulgars Help Germans
SOFIA, via Amsterdam, Nov. 10.—Operating in conjunction with the Germans against the railroad north of Nish, the Bulgars are helping today to drive out a few lingering Serb bands. A number more towns in the southern Morava valley have been occupied.

Pushing northward in western Serbia in the hope of cutting off the Serbian main body's escape from the Nish district into Montenegro, the Bulgars have occupied Tetovo, twenty miles southeast of Prisrend.

This movement is in the direction of a junction with the Austrians who are moving southward. If the two forces meet in time, the Serbs will be quickly surrounded.

The Nish population received the Bulgarians with flowers and cheers when they entered the city, greeting them as liberators.

Five thousand Serbs were captured by the Bulgarians in and around Nish, a war office bulletin said today.

Invasers Join
BERLIN, via London, Nov. 10.—Fresh forces of Austro-German and Bulgarian troops effected a junction today at Vlashka, in the Serbian region along the Orient railroad. They are operating to put an end to guerrilla fighting and hasten a resumption of train operation.

Detaching forces from the army around Nish, the Bulgars pursued the Serbs to the southward into the Leskovac valley. Another body, far to the westward, near the Montenegro frontier, is operating in the Kosovopolje (Plain of the Black Birds) with a view to closing the Serbs' last avenue of escape.

In the Prilep region, the French has suffered a repulse by the Bulgars and much booty and many French prisoners are arriving already at Strumitza on the Bulgarian side of the frontier.

BABY BOY ILL WHEN DEATH TOOK FATHER

Tubercular meningitis, later complicated by bronchial pneumonia, caused the death of Nels Beaver, five months old, according to the death certificate on file in the office of the city health department. Attention was directed to this fact today in denial of the account of the baby's death, given by Undertaker Theodore L. Dahl yesterday, that exposure at his father's funeral had resulted in Mrs. Beaver's second bereavement within two weeks.

Mrs. John H. Klaus, wife of the pastor of the German Methodist church, took charge of Nels during the funeral of his father. It was pointed out today that the baby's fatal illness was contracted before the father's death.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR ITALIAN SHIP ON FIRE IN GULF

Steamer Livietta Ablaze with Great Quantities of Oil and Gasoline Aboard

TUGS GO TO BOAT'S AID

Captain and Crew Are Thought to Have Been Taken Off the Ship

GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 10.—All hope was abandoned today for the Italian steamship Livietta, afire in the Gulf of Mexico, about sixty-five miles east of Sabine Pass with 40,000 cases of gasoline and 80,000 cases of oil aboard.

A wireless from the steamer Gulf Stream, standing by, reported that the fire is now burning fiercely in holds number three and number four. The tugs Russell and John Sealy also are standing by, while the tug Senator Bailey is rushing to the scene. No mention was made of the crew in the Gulf Stream's latest wireless, although an earlier message stated that Captain Rico and his twenty-six men had been taken aboard the Russell.

The Livietta left Port Arthur, Tex., with the steamers Massott, Gulf Coast and Gulf Stream for Buenos Aires. She is owned by the Darroso Brothers of Genoa, Italy. She has a tonnage of 1,059 and was built at Sestri, Italy in 1899.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

RED TOP

BY KEITH KENYON

(Copyright, 1915, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

One of the bellhops nicknamed her that the first day she came on duty at the St. Dimitri switchboard. The mere occupancy of the seat at that switchboard had been tantamount to an engagement. Four of the previous girls had married inside of as many months, and the hotel policy was to be changed. The telephone operator was not to be attractive. In fact, she must maintain her stand vigilantly and aggressively against all comers.

Even the bellhops and their captain looked her over cautiously. She was not a city girl. And, bravest of all, strolled over about nine, and leaned tentatively on the top of the desk with his most friendly smile. "How does the scenery strike you, Bessie?" he asked.

"Not half as strongly as something will strike you if you call me Bessie, again," she retorted calmly. "Just stroll along there, child. I'm not a bit lonely and if I am I'll call my own numbers, thank you."

She tucked a couple of large shell pins into her side braids and looked at Andy's head absently.

The colonel expressed himself as delighted over her aloofness. Even to the colonel she was aloof, and he was owner of the St. Dimitri. She gazed past his handsome head quite as nonchalantly as she had past Andy's. She answered calls courteously and promptly, but there were no admirers around her desk, nor did they linger near. Any inclination that way was always immediately crushed by her manner.

"Gad, sir," said the Colonel happily, as he lingered over his after-dinner cigar with the proprietor, Haswell. "Gad, sir, I rather think she'll stay. Fine girl, Haswell, too good for the position. Beautiful hair. Perfect profile. Wonder she isn't mobbed, but it's the manner that holds them off. She squeals a man with one look. What's her name?"

"Ruth Hollister, sir." "Hollister, Hollister? Massachusetts? Used to be Senator Ben Hollister at Washington from Massachusetts when I was in the House. Fine chap. Gad, sir, I remember when that navy appropriation bill came up after the Japanese trouble."

The Colonel rambled off luxuriously, leaning far back in his deep leather chair and rocking one foot. But when his cigar burned out he sauntered down the long marble corridor to the telephone desk, and began with his very best Georgia manner.

"I beg pardon, I'm sure, Miss Hollister. I'm Colonel Congreve. I'm wondering if you could possibly be of the same family as my old friend, Senator Hollister, of Massachusetts." "I don't think so, Colonel Congreve," came back clearly, even crisply. "I am from out west, near Omaha. We have no senators in our family yet. We're just settlers."

"Omaha! God bless my heart," murmured the colonel. "How did you ever get so far from home?"

Something perhaps in his voice, something maybe in his face, made her look up at him with her big dark eyes, and she answered deliberately:

"I was one of ten hundred thousand girls who imagine they can sing for grand opera in New York. I got tired living on hopes and air; so I learned this."

That night the Colonel sat up on the roof garden, quite alone, long after the crowd had gone. Just why one girl's face should suddenly fill his world, he could not see. At 55 one becomes self-analytical, almost mistrusting any thrill of romance, and the Colonel was wary. Yet all he had to do was to close his eyes and there rose before him the face of Ruth Hollister. Gray eyes full of truth and sanity, no flirtation there, no invitation, just truth and sanity. And courage—that was what struck him in her face, the sweet, fine, light courage of a girl of one who leads a charge in a great cause. Red-top, Haswell had said the boy called her. Glorious hair she had, rich in tone as a ripe chestnut, waving in loose, soft folds around her small head. Gad, she was plucky. Sometimes a defeat spells victory. He wondered how he could help her. And the next day Haswell was told to promote Miss Hollister to the business department. The Colonel's fertile fancy had found a place for her.

"You see, Miss Hollister," he told her, "I want you to be the first to know, sir," he said, "Miss Hollister has promised to be my wife."

"You don't tell me, Allan, well," said the Colonel musingly, "fumbling in his vest pocket. 'So she marries according to tradition here, eh, but chooses one of the force. I wonder if you'd mind so very much if I supplied the ring. It would give me the greatest pleasure—' he drew out the morocco case and opened it. 'No, don't thank me, my boy. I meant to give it to somebody I loved very dearly, but—er—it didn't happen. It takes up considerable room in my pocket, and reminds me what a sentimental old fool I was. Suppose you take it, with my very happiest wishes, Allan.'"

After the boy had stepped out of the room, the Colonel sighed and lit a fresh cigar. Still, gad, sir, there is such a thing as victory in defeat.

her. "I want to get up a winter booklet that will not only attract the very best advertisers, but the best patronage, too. Nothing flamboyant, but neat and correct, you get me? Just work along with Allan here, and I think between you you can turn out a mighty fine thing."

Allan smiled. He was the Colonel's private secretary, and the two got to work over the new booklet. Ruth grew to love the work. It was fascinating, figuring on make-up and type, the selection of the most telling words, the eliminations and additions, the taking of new photographs. All this fell to her share, while Allan looked after the advertising. And the Colonel bided his own time, satisfied to know she was drawing $35 a week instead of $12, with a tidy little suite at the hotel thrown in for good measure. Around Christmas would be time enough, he thought, and he strolled over to the avenue one day and enjoyed himself supremely selecting a diamond ring for her. It must be a flawless one, sir, absolutely flawless, mind, not gaudy, just right. And it lay tucked away in his vest pocket against the hour.

The day before Christmas he came into the inner private office unexpectedly and found Ruth standing by the window, gazing down at the park while Allan talked to her. They did not notice the Colonel's entrance, and he stood in silence listening to the boy plead for her. It had been many years since the glamour of real romance had swept the placid surface of his everyday life. As he listened to the unreasoning, impetuous flood of speech the boy was pouring out to her—nothing but love, love, love, no mention of money or position, nothing but love—he knew all at once that here was what she needed and he could not give it to her—young love in all its splendor and divinity. He went out noiselessly.

Later, Allan came to him, his clean-shaven young face radiant with a new confidence.

"I want you to be the first to know, sir," he said, "Miss Hollister has promised to be my wife."

"You don't tell me, Allan, well," said the Colonel musingly, "fumbling in his vest pocket. 'So she marries according to tradition here, eh, but chooses one of the force. I wonder if you'd mind so very much if I supplied the ring. It would give me the greatest pleasure—' he drew out the morocco case and opened it. 'No, don't thank me, my boy. I meant to give it to somebody I loved very dearly, but—er—it didn't happen. It takes up considerable room in my pocket, and reminds me what a sentimental old fool I was. Suppose you take it, with my very happiest wishes, Allan.'"

After the boy had stepped out of the room, the Colonel sighed and lit a fresh cigar. Still, gad, sir, there is such a thing as victory in defeat.

WAR GAME FATAL

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 10.—Playing at war with a loaded shotgun proved fatal to three-year-old Raymond, who with his brother Richard, six, mounted the weapon on a log of wood and prepared to bombard an imaginary enemy. Richard accidentally discharged the gun and the load tore its way through Raymond's body.

WILL THE WAR END TOMORROW

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—"The European war will end tomorrow," says a postcard from a German soldier in the Vosges. "Germany's last great war was in 1870-71."

Peace was concluded May 10, 1871. Add 1870 to 1871 and you get 3581. Add the first two figures, 3 and 7, and you get 10. Add the last two and you get 5, meaning 10-5-71.

"This war has been in 1914-15. Add 1914 to 1915 and you get 3829. Add the first two figures and you get 11. Add the last two and you get 11, meaning that peace will come on 11-11-15."

It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Ray of Brockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes it to rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble is removed. To answer this purpose Anti-kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women."

JAPANESE PEOPLE ARE PLEASED TO ATTEND CORONATION

The Populace Are Present at Ceremonies for First Time in Many Centuries

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10.—Emperor Yoshihito's coronation here today was the first coronation in twenty-five centuries that representatives of the people have been permitted to attend. The Japanese are greatly pleased.

Today's rather simple and brief ceremony, marking the accession of Yoshihito to the place handed down "by divine right" from his forefathers who were emperors "before the dawn of history," is the climax of the six-weeks accession program for which the diet appropriated $2,000,000.

Members of the court, ministers of state, members of the diplomatic corps and members of the diet, representing the people, attired in the gorgeous silver and golden ceremonial robes of the ancients, were nowhere to be seen when the foreign representatives were heralded to their seats before the imperial scarlet canopy to the sound of flutes and drums, hidden in Shunkoden temple.

It may be several hours before the signal will be given and the doors of the sanctuary, where the jewel, the sword and the mirror are opened and the offering spread before the altar. Then will enter the emperor, followed by the princes of the blood, ministers and coronation commissioners. After a brief silence the emperor will read an address to the gathered spirits of his dead ancestors, telling them he has marked the place they left for him.

Those at the coronation then will do homage to the new emperor and he will sit down upon the seat of The Son of Heaven. Later he will publicly proclaim his accession to his subjects generally. Days of feasting and celebration will follow the ceremony proper of today.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Baron Loreburn's grave warning in the British house of lords that anarchy might follow the prolongation of the war indefinitely, is certain to have an effect on the belligerent statesmen even though for the moment it makes no impression on public opinion.

Lord Loreburn is one of Europe's most brilliant lawyers and deepest thinkers. He was lord chancellor of Great Britain between 1905-12, and is an intense liberal in politics. He has always been noted for blurring out the truth, however, inconvenient the truth might be to others and he has owed his rise to that unusual characteristic as much as to the admirable judgment which almost always has been shown to reside in his opinions.

Undoubtedly, whatever Lord Loreburn says in the open, in a time of grave crisis, many minds of first rank are privately thinking. Under this condition is frequently needs but a publicly spoken word to cause men at large to unbuckle their half-timorously concealed thoughts. There can be little question, but the Baron Loreburn's picture of Europe after the war as a wilderness inhabited mostly by old people and children will produce exchanges of opinions among statesmen concerning the consequences to the world if the war is fought to the end.

These exchanges may even occur between representatives of enemy powers if it be true that Prince Von Buelow is now in Switzerland for the purpose of discovering a possible basis of peace. The most fundamental of all peace bases is a realization of the consequences that would result if peace were refused and if the war were to continue to a condition of exhaustion.

Lord Loreburn's warning of the spectre of anarchy lurking in the background of the present conflict must be accepted, therefore, as a positive contribution to the cause of peace. It is one of a growing number of indications that Europe gradually is emerging from the condition of blind hatred which prevailed earlier in the war. This does not mean that peace will probably be declared immediately, but it unquestionably does mean that the way is being cleared for an exchange of peace feelings among the belligerents. How long it will take before the way is finally opened, no one can tell. If the other combatant countries have statesmen possessing Lord Loreburn's frankness and if the warning of a prolonged war means to Europe are frequently repeated, the arrival of peace will be much hastened.

Wisconsin's cranberry crop goes to points west and northwest of Chicago almost exclusively. The Kansas City markets take heavy shipments of Badger cranberries. A few carloads annually cross the line into Canada. Not a single carload is shipped to markets in the eastern states.

BLOOD THE SEAT OF DISEASE

An eminent authority on nervous diseases has announced that the blood is the seat of all disease. How important, therefore, that it be kept in a pure, healthy condition. For this purpose our local druggists, Hoosier Bros., guarantee Vinoli because it is a combination of the three most successful tonics known, iron in its most soluble form, the medicinal extractives of fresh cod livers, without oil, and the nourishing properties of beef peptone. Can you imagine anything better?

FRANCE WILL BUY MACHINERY IN U. S. AFTER WAR HE SAYS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—France will be a heavy buyer of American machinery at the close of the war, Maurice D'Amour, head of a French commercial and industrial commission which arrived here, asserted. "Therefore, we have spent $160,000,000 a year in Germany for machinery alone," said D'Amour, who was formerly French consul at New Orleans and is now secretary of the commission on appropriations in the French chamber of deputies.

"That money will go to the United States in the future."

The commissioners expect to visit important industrial centers in the United States. Other members of the commission were: J. Lesueur, official delegate of the French department of agriculture; L. Trincano, official delegate of the department of commerce; E. De La Salle-Thirlez, representing the French spinning industry, and M. Chaufour, Paris banker. Additional members will arrive on the next boat from Bordeaux.

"Our object," said M. Chaufour, "is to modernize French industry after the war. The industrial era of the United States in France is at hand. The United States must furnish the material for the rebuilding of France's industries. The restoration of peace will be followed by an unprecedented commercial intercourse between the two republics."

An Atchison man is so contrary that after he finishes reading history he says: "Aw, h—l, I know better."

Daddy's Bedtime

Story—Bibbly Wah And the Boys Go Chestnutting.

Bibbly Wah Climbed the Big Rock.

ONE fall day when Uncle Ben was going over to Pond Hill to see that his men fixed the fences," daddy began, "he invited the boys and Bibbly Wah to go chestnutting. So Anne made up a delicious luncheon basket, and they all three piled onto the back of the yellow buckboard. In about an hour Uncle Ben left them all alone under the beautiful tall trees just beginning to open their burrs to Jack Frost. Jim, who was bigger than Bobbie, slipped up a tree, walked far out on the strong limbs until they sprang with his weight and shook the glossy brown nuts rattling down into the dry leaves for Bibbly Wah and Bobbie to pick up. Then Jim would take turns picking up nuts, using a short stick to knock the leaves off the top of them. The bright sun made the hollow where the chestnut grove stood delightful and warm, and there were so many trees that each one did not need to be shook long."

"Did Bibbly Wah eat as she picked up nuts?" asked Jack. "Just like she ate berries when she picked," said daddy. "The children had stuffed their pockets, their caps and two little baskets that Anne had given them to fill for her, when suddenly Jim threw up his arms and yelled: 'There's a young bear! Run for your lives! Bibbly Wah, get up on that big rock and stay till I kill him with this club!' Jim grabbed a stout piece of broken limb, Bobbie got another, and as fast as her short legs could carry her Bibbly Wah scrambled up onto the big rock, for, sure enough, there right under the very biggest chestnut tree stood a furry, short legged, rather ugly looking animal sniffing at the children's footprints, even into Bibbly Wah's little basket, which he rudely overturned with his nose. Bibbly Wah was too scared to yell at him. How she did tuck her toes under her, make herself small and wait while the boys screamed that they would save her and whacked away at the dead leaves around the young bear, too afraid to go very near it!"

"I think they were very brave!" cried Evelyn. "Presently the sound of wheels rang across the clear air, and Uncle Ben drove up to take the children home. 'Wait,' yelled excited Bobbie; 'it's a bear and may bite you and old Ned!' Then Uncle Ben burst out laughing. 'It's an old woodchuck, Bobbie, who went out to walk in the sunshine and lost his way home. There's his hole over yonder.'"

"So he picked Bibbly Wah off the rock, all shaky with thrills, and off home they all drove with their nuts," daddy finished. "That was a lovely story!" cried the children, running off to bed. "I haven't been kissed yet!" daddy called after them.

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Ray of Brockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes it to rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble is removed. To answer this purpose Anti-kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women."

IS NOT PEACE NEAR?

The world is thinking in terms of peace. War, stunning in its immensity until dazed understanding turns wearily from the spectacle, ceases to interest. Speculation upon the outcome, upon which war talk thrived during more doubtful periods, in the almost certainty of the time affords no diversion. And if we
of a peaceful nation are weary of war, how must it be with the peoples whom war is despoiling? Still "the wish is father to the thought," and
with all peoples wishing for peace,
with the warring nations spent and sick of slaughter, peace seems not far off.

CHAMPIONS OF LAW AND ORDER

The American note to Great Britain demanding recognition of neutral rights on the seas presents the case with clarity and force. Since violation of these rights is a wrong
for which redress is "humanly possible," it follows that in accord with this country's leading position for arbitration appeal to that remedy
may be the ultimate chapter in the history of the case. England's disappointment at the note's severity, Germany's feeling that it lacks severity,
both natural, are the best evidences of its fairness. Britain's exclamation that we should not demand the letter of the law she breaks in her "life
and death struggle" has no merit,
for no more than Germany can she justify illegal war methods by citing her own emergency. It is a favorite idea of the burglar that his wife was starving. That the penalty of keeping the national peace shall be to be despoiled by belligerents is a doctrine which will never be recognized along the forward trail of civilization. If any nation must lose its rights of the sea, it should be that nation which wars, not nations that avoid such calamity. Perhaps we are not at the end of all wars, but at least, out of the strong position of the United States will come clearer definition and fuller respect of the rights of neutrals upon the ocean.

ART ASSOCIATION PROVES ITS WORTH

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," we look to attendance at the art exhibit for evidence of the merits of that movement out of which came the Art Association of La Crosse, and by comparison with early efforts we find the pudding excellent.

When President Coate attempted to create interest in the first exhibit, brought here by Mr. Erickson, it seemed a thankless task. Excellent pictures were hung at the Normal,
but hard newspaper pounding drew,
or drove, few people to see it. There was little interest, no enthusiasm, excepting on the part of a few pioneer devotees. With this dead weight of apathy upon him the wonder is that Mr. Coate had the courage to call that first meeting looking to the formation of a society.

The first brighter aspect, following organization in a small way with meager and not too eager attendance, was the acceptance of positions upon the directorate by many influential citizens who, no matter
how little art had appealed to them
as a community concern, individually
were art lovers and patrons.

Convinced by the character of the directorate that a substantial basis
had been laid, membership came freely until now two hundred and sixty are enrolled. Another splendid exhibit, inspiring lectures by Mr.
Dudley Crafts Watson, and the association went into summer quarters
a fixed institution in the civic life of La Crosse.

And "the pudding," in two days the Brewer exhibit has been visited by more people than canvassed the first exhibit less than a year ago in an entire week and a day. The "proof" of merit is that the association is doing exactly what it was organized to do—it is creating interest in and appreciation of art among all the people of La Crosse.

NOT EXACTLY DRY GOODS

Leaning upon the counter of a drygoods store stood a red-eyed, dirty man. His hair was uncombed, his clothing in rags, upon his face despair. He was a picture of degradation. Eagerly, greedily he scanned
the fabrics before him.

"Who is that poor fellow?"

To the curious inquirer the proprietor of the store made deprecating reply.

He used to be one of our best customers, but he couldn't handle drygoods. He got to going too strong.
He hung around here all the time until finally he lost his job. Then his wife left him, and he's been going from bad to worse. We can't exactly put him out, for he used to spend all his money here, so we have to put up with him. I don't know how he lives at all. Once in a while we hand him a remnant, and that is all he ever gets.

War is not the only business that kills its patrons. What is the future of a business that destroys its customers, the better the customer the quicker his ruin? How long will people trade? From whence will come new buyers to stand in dead men's shoes?

Some men are so skeptical that they refuse even to believe the report of a gun.

The value of a man's advice depends upon the success he achieves
by following it.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Double Extension
My grandma's spectacles are queer—
It's almost like a game;
She says she has two pairs of them,
Although they look the same.
One pair makes tiny things seem big,
"Enlarged," she says it's called;
The other makes big things seem small.
I s'pose they are ensmall.

I never see her change them, but
she always seems to know Just when to see things pretty small
—and when to make 'em
grow!

Some day folks think I'm 'quisitive,
And bother 'round a lot;
Her specs just twinkle as she explains,
"She's such a little tot!"
But when she gives me gingerbread,
Or cookies, for a treat,
She says, "A great big girl like you Needs lots and lots to eat!"

I saved some choc'lates for her once—
Some teeny little ones—
She said I was "an angel" an'
They looked "as big as buns!"
But when I dropped my mug, and made
A big spot on the mat,
She said, "it won't be seen at all,
A little thing like that!"

I'm saving all my pennies, and I'm going to buy two pairs Of spectacles for father—the kind my grandma wears.

Romulus in a New Role

A Montana copper magnate made the grand tour of Europe just before the war, and on his return was given a dinner by the chamber of commerce at Butte.

One of the hosts, says a New York er who was present, asked the traveler what it was that most impressed him during his visit abroad.

He reflected a moment and replied:

"The sight that pleased me most was in Rome. It was a solid copper statue of a wolf nursing Romeo and Juliet."

Reassuring Mother

Edmund had just begun to attend
the public school, and had found a new friend, a child of whom Ed-mund's mother had never heard.

"Who is this, Walter?" she asked.
"Is he a nice little boy?"

"Yes, ma'am, he is," replied Edmund, enthusiastically.

"Does he say any naughty words?"
pursued his mother.

"No," replied Edmund, with emphasis, "and I'm not going to teach him any."—Youth's Companion.

FACE COVERED WITH SMALL PIMPLES

Itched Badly. Disfigured for Time Being. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Made Complexion Clearer. Face Entirely Healed.

New Cambria, Mo.—"The first thing I began to notice some eruptions on my face.
They were small pimples forming. They would itch so badly that I could hardly keep from picking at them. When I did it seemed as if they kept spreading. I was disfigured for the time being; my face was totally covered with the pimples. They were so bad I hated to have a person see my face. It was in this condition a year or over.

"I read in the paper of how good Cuticura Soap and Ointment were and I resolved to try them. After I used them several times they seemed to heal the places and make my complexion clearer. I spread the Ointment on my face and let it remain for about five minutes and then washed it off with very hot water and Cuticura Soap. My face was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Flossie Hepworth, June 30, 1914.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little,
that it is almost criminal not to use them.

months old, the chemist was paying extra attention to weighing out the various drugs.

Noticing this, the woman got annoyed with what she thought was meanness.

"Aw, mon," she exclaimed, in disgust, "you neednae be sae scrimped!
It's fur a pair, mitherless bairn!"

Poor Father

Ernest P. Bicknell, the national director of the American Red Cross, was talking in New York about the splendid work that his organization is doing in Belgium.

"We are supplying the Belgians," he said, "with $12,000,000 worth of food a month. We are also supplying food to the inhabitants of Poland, whom Germany has taken over."

"We have a great deal to do, eh?"
he said. "At last, at last, I've got my five daughters off my hands. Now to put my five sons-in-law on their feet."

None Got By Him

A young Irishman was sent by his backers to a neighboring city to box with an athlete living there.

He was getting the worst of it,
as his friends soon realized.

"Come, brace up, Jim," cautioned
one of his friends. "Stop more of his blows."

"Stop him?" the unfortunate Jim

CHAPTER XXII. Sandy's Method.

McTrigger dropped on his knees
in the sand. The look of exultation was gone from his face. He twisted
the collar about the dog's limp neck until he came to the worn plate, on which he could make out the faintly engraved letters K-a-z-a-n. He spelled the letters out one by one, and the look in his face was of one who still disbelieved what he had seen and heard.

"A dog!" he exclaimed again. "A dog, Sandy McTrigger, an' a—a beauty!"

He rose to his feet and looked down on his victim. A pool of blood lay in the white sand at the end of Kazan's nose. After a moment Sandy lent over to see where his bullet had struck. His inspection filled him with a new and greater interest. The heavy ball from the muzzle-loader had struck Kazan fairly on top of the head. It was a glancing blow that had not even broken the skull, and like a flash Sandy understood the quivering and twitching of Kazan's shoulders and legs. He had thought that they were the last muscular throes of death, but Kazan was not quivering. He was only stunned, and would be on his feet again in a few minutes. Sandy was a connoisseur of dogs—of dogs that had won sledge traces. He had lived among them two-thirds of his life. He could tell their age, their value, and a part of their history at a glance. In the snow he could tell the trail of a Malamute, and the track of an Eskimo dog from that of a Yukon husky. He looked at Kazan's feet. They were wolf feet, and he chuckled. Kazan was part wild. He was big and powerful, and Sandy thought of the coming winter, and of the high prices that dogs would bring at Red Clay City. He went to the canoe and returned with a roll of stout moosehide babiche. Then he sat down cross-legged in front of Kazan and began making a muzzle. He did this by plaiting babiche thongs in the same manner that one does in making the web of a snow-shoe. In ten minutes he had the muzzle over Kaz-an's nose and fastened securely about his neck. To the dog's collar
he then fastened a ten-foot rope of babiche. After that he sat back and waited for Kazan to come to life.

When Kazan first lifted his head
he could not see. There was a red film before his eyes. But this passed away swiftly and he saw the man.
His first instinct was to rise to his feet. Three times he fell back before he could stand up. Sandy was squatted six feet from him, holding the end of the babiche, and grinning.
Kazan's fangs gleamed back. He growled, and the crest along his spine rose menacingly. Sandy jumped to his feet.

"Guess I know what you're fingering on," he said. "I've had your kind before. The dam' wolves have turned you bad, an' you'll need a whole lot of club before you're right again. Now, look here."

Sandy had taken the precaution of bringing a thick club along with the babiche. He picked it up from where he had dropped it in the sand. Kaz-an's strength had fairly returned to him now. He was no longer dizzy.
The mist had cleared away from his eyes. Before him he saw once more his old enemy, man—man and the club. All of the wild ferocity of his nature was roused in an instant.
Without reasoning he knew that Gray Wolf was gone, and that this man was accountable for her going.
He knew that this man had also brought him his own hurt, and what he ascribed to the man he also attributed to the club. In his never undertaking of things, born of freedom and Gray Wolf, Man and Club were one and inseparable. With a snarl he leaped at Sandy. The man was not expecting a direct assault,
and before he could raise his club or spring aside Kazan had landed full on his chest. The muzzle about Kaz-an's jaws save him. Fangs that would have torn his throat open snapped harmlessly. Under the weight of the dog's body he fell back, as if struck down by a catapult.

As quick as a cat he was on his feet again, with the end of the babiche twisted several times about his hand. Kazan leaped again, and this time he was met by a furious swing of the club. It smashed

Had Throat Trouble Doctors said health gone. Four bottles Peruna cured Me

Mr. B. W. D. Barnes, ex-Sheriff of Warren County, Tennessee, in a letter from R. R. 2, Box 10, McMinnville, Tenn., writes: "I had throat trouble and had three doctors treating me. All failed to do me any good, and pronounced my health gone. I concluded to try Peruna, and after using four bottles can say
I was entirely cured. That was three years ago. I am now well and able to ride all the time, thanks to you, gentlemen."

cines can now procure Peruna Tab-

against his shoulder, and sent him down to the sand. Before he could recover Sandy was upon him, with all the fury of a man gone mad. He shortened the babiche by twisting it again and again about his hand, and the club rose and fell with the skill and strength of one long accustomed to its use. The first blows served only to add to Kazan's hatred of man, and the ferocity and fearlessness of his attacks. Again and again
he leaped in, and each time the club fell upon him with a force that threatened to break his bones. There was a tense hard look about Sandy's cruel mouth. He had never known a dog like this before, and he was a bit nervous, even with Kazan muzzled.
Three times Kazan's fangs
would have sunk deep in his flesh had it not been for the babiche. And if the thongs about his jaws should slip, or break—

Sandy followed up the thought with a smashing blow that landed on Kazan's head, and once more the old batter fell limp upon the sand.
McTrigger's breath was coming in quick gasps. He was almost winded.
Not until the club slipped from his hand did he realize how desperate the fight had been. Before Kazan recovered from the blow that had stunned him Sandy examined the muzzle and strengthened it by adding another babiche thong. Then he dragged Kazan to a log that high water had thrown up on the shore a few yards away and made the end of the babiche fast to a dead snag. After that he pulled his canoe higher up on the sand, and began to prepare camp for the night.

For some minutes after Kazan's stunned senses had become normal
he lay motionless, watching Sandy

McTrigger. Every bone in his body gave him pain. His jaws were sore and bleeding. His upper lip was smashed where the club had fallen.
One eye was almost closed. Several times Sandy came near, much pleased at what he regarded as the good results of the beating. Each time he prodded Kazan with it, and the dog snarled and snapped savagely at the end of it. That was what Sandy wanted—it was an old trick of the dog-slaver. Instantly he was using the club again, until with a whining cry Kazan slunk under the protection of the snag to which he was fastened. He could scarcely drag himself. His right forepaw was smashed. His hindquarters sank under him. For a time after this second beating he could not have escaped had he been free.

Sandy was in unusually good humor.

"I'll take the devil out of you all right," he told Kazan for the twentieth time. "There's nothin' like beatin' to make dogs an' wimmin live up to the mark. A month from now you'll be worth two hundred dollars or I'll skin you alive!"

LEAGUE DRAFTS NEW FIGHT FOR SCHOOL TONIGHT

North High School Campaign Will Be Revived at Meeting of Progressive League

NOT DISHEARTENED BY DEFEAT Big Meeting Is Expected to Register Sentiment of the North Side

The north side is not through with its fight for a north high school. Plans for a new campaign will be launched tonight at a meeting of the North Side Progressive League to be held in Joseph G. Dubraks' office. Mr. Dubraks is president of the league.

Mr. Dubraks said today that the league is not disheartened by the defeat of the original north high school project in the council October 22. They intend, he declared, to wage a fight for the school with as much vigor as before.

What plans will be adopted for the campaign Mr. Dubraks did not state. He said that matters were indefinite until the meeting this evening.

A large attendance at the meeting tonight is desired by the league, in order that the sentiment of the north side regarding the foundation of a new campaign may be ascertained. All citizens of the north side are urged to be present.

CABINET CALLED TO GO OVER WORK BEFORE SESSION

International Situation Will Be Threshed Out at Meet It Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—For the first time since early in the summer, President Wilson will call his cabinet together next week to take up work preparatory to the opening of congress.

The first session of the cabinet is expected to be devoted largely to a resume of the international situation as it has developed during the last few months. The president also is expected to lay before his associates notices on his coming message to congress. He has not yet started to write his message, but has gone over details of it carefully in his mind and has made many notes on different features of the document.

The cabinet sessions are expected to be held regularly on Tuesdays and Fridays. The first one is scheduled either for Friday or Tuesday. On the heels of the apparent adjustment of the differences with Germany, there has come the incident of the sinking of the Ancona, supposedly by an Austrian submarine, which undoubtedly will be laid before the cabinet, along with other data of international affairs.

Congressman Sherley of Kentucky, chairman of the house of commons on fortifications and of the special budget committee today sought a conference with the president and members of the cabinet, at which he desired to bring up and discuss his proposed budget idea.

UNDERSEA BOATS GET THREE MORE BRITISH VESSELS

Eleven Vessels Have Fallen Victims to Submarines in the Last Three Days

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The British steamers Californian, Moorina and Clan McAllister have been sunk by German submarines. A total of eleven merchant ships have been sunk in the last three days.

The Californian was a 6,022 ton liner owned by Leyland & Sons of Liverpool, most of whose boats are in the African trade. Though the British censor would not permit the locality in which the attack was made to be made public, it appears possible that the Californian was sunk in the Mediterranean while enroute to northern African ports. On a previous trip she was shelled by a submarine but escaped.

Lloyd's lists no vessel named the Moorina.

The Clan McAllister was a vessel of 4,835 tons owned by Caysar, Irvine & Company of Glasgow.

HIS LORDSHIP IS EMPLOYED IN AN AMMUNITION PLANT

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Oct. 11.—(By Mail.)—Lord Charlemont, 38, eighth viscount of that noble Irish family, is in a fair way to become a member of the Tinplaters' union. He not only admits but welcomes the possibility.

Lori Charlemont has been working for months in a munition factory at Coalisland, Southern England. He started at $6 a week and piecework. To date he has made no less than $7 a week and sometimes $17. He has acquired some knowledge of metal turning and having a knack for machinery admits he has "landed on his feet." He has worked on shells with trade unionists and there was no kick. That is where he first got his idea of joining the tinplaters.

Alongside Lord Charlemont are gentlemen and laborers, tradesmen, chauffeurs, grooms and gardeners—all making munitions. He declares they are all making good. Average intelligence, he insists, backed by a desire to do one's best, have beaten skilled labor at its own game.

"The first day," says Lord Charlemont, "I did thirty ten-pounder shells and thought it jolly good. The second day I did fifty, and now I do from 120 to 150 quite easily. I have been on 60 pounders also; nasty things, these, to tackle—weigh about 40 pounds apiece and are two feet and a half long. I can do about fifty or sixty of them a day and each one pays me five cents. The miserable ten pounders are only three farthings."

IMPORTANT

For many years our friends have used our chronometer to time their watches by. We wish to say that this instrument is now being put in thorough order and it will require three or four weeks before the work is finished. It will then be in perfect order and give accurate time to all passersby. This Kullberg chronometer has been running thirty years and is still a perfect timepiece. To preserve this accuracy it is being thoroughly overhauled.

New Marking System

Winners of points in the first senior athletic indoor meet of the Y. M. C. A. will be given credit for their efforts by a graduated scale of marking, a system which will be used for the first time in the city, at the meet next Thursday night. The meet is the first of five or six planned for the winter, at the end of which medals will be given to the five men getting the highest number of points. They will also be honored as the association champions of 1915-16. The second meet will be given on or about December 16, with different events listed.

CLEAR LAKE, Nov. 10.—A man, evidently a transient laborer, run down by an Omaha freight train on which he was stealing a ride, died a few hours later. APPLY POSLAM; SEE HOW QUICKLY PIMPLES RESPOND

Poslam is a most useful remedy for Pimples, Undue Redness and minor skin affections and it is also an excellent treatment for Eczema and stubborn eruptive diseases.

To see how quickly it acts on Pimples or in clearing an inflamed complexion, simply apply upon the affected spot at night and note the improvement in the morning. Poslam takes hold and exerts its work of healing at once. Its results after a brief time are often surprising. Poslam is absolutely harmless.

Use Poslam Soap daily for Toilet and Bath, particularly if skin is tender and other soaps irritate.

GIRL KIDNAPPED

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The local police today were combing the Italian section in search for Mary Tiscacioria, 22, said to have been kidnapped from her uncle's home in La Grange, Ill. The uncle, A. Azarello, is said to have objected to a suitor of his niece and thinks the suitor took the girl away.

FINANCING OF BIG SEWER PLAN COMES UP IN FEW DAYS

Project Will Be Launched at Finance Committee Meeting Early Next Week

TWELVE MILES OF DRAIN PLANNED

Work Cannot Possibly Be Finished in Less Than Three Years Engineer Tells Aldermen

The $200,000 sewer project for the east and south sections of the city will get under way at a meeting of the finance committee early next week, it was decided last night after the plans had been gone over by the sewer committee in conference with the finance and health sections of the common council. The finance committee was not ready, Chairman B. C. Smith said, with any plan of financing to include in the budget, and so the meeting last night left the matter in abeyance until next week.

Would Start Next Year
A suggestion was put forward by Alderman John Schneberger, in whose ward much of the proposed sewer is to be laid, that the work be divided into three sections, one to be taken up each year for three years. He advocated construction of the Mississippi street trunk sewer, whose cost is estimated at $40,000, next year.

The huge size of the project became more apparent from figures quoted by City Engineer George P. Bradish last night. There are twelve miles of sewer contemplated in the proposed system. Seven miles of the pipe will be laid north of Mississippi street, draining all the territory from Sixteenth street east and from Mississippi street north to Farwell street. Five miles of the system will be south of the trunk on Mississippi street, serving all the territory south to Mormon Coulee road.

The cost, varying by a few dollars depending upon the order in which the work is done, will be more than $200,000. Of this the city's share is a little over $125,000, according to the estimates prepared by the city engineer.

Requires at Least Three Years
The work, Mr. Bradish said, will require at least three years. One year must be devoted to the trunk sewer up Mississippi street from Ninth to Seventeenth streets; two years to the Seventeenth street main sewer and its laterals north of Mississippi; one year to the Sixteenth street main sewer south and its system. By letting the north and south systems in simultaneous contracts, the work may be done in three years, Mr. Bradish estimated.

HORNE TO REFEREE BIG NORMAL GAME HERE SATURDAY

Garry of Winona Will Umpire and Prof. Harry Spence Will Be Head Linesman

Officials have been selected for the conference championship game between the normal schools of River Falls and La Crosse, to be played on Normal field Saturday afternoon. A game free from the wrangling and scrapping which characterized last week's encounter with Preston is expected, for Coach Owen E. Horne of the local high school will referee. W. T. Garry of Winona, who ruled the high school game at Winona earlier in the season, has been secured as umpire. Like Mr. Horne, Mr. Garry is a Springfield man and has worked in many local football encounters. The head linesman for the big normal contest will be Prof. Harry Spence of this city, who is famed in these parts for his unbiased decisions and his knowledge of the rules governing the game. These three officials compare favorably with those that could be secured by sending a great distance. Their selection has put the final touch to the preliminary arrangements concerning the game itself.

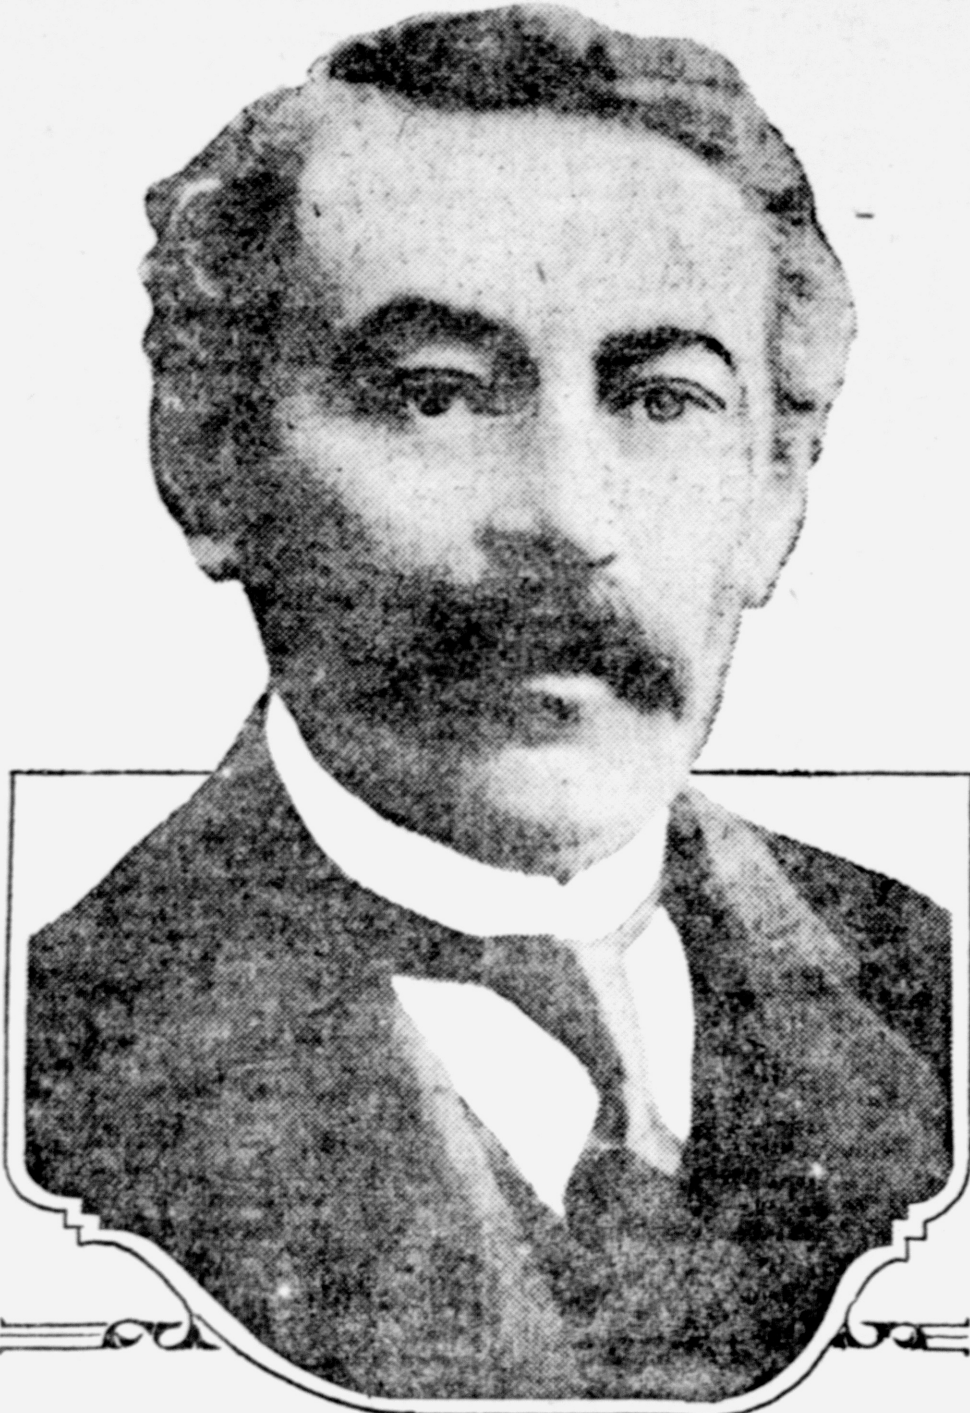

The Men's league has continued its activity by taking upon itself the policing of the normal athletic field during rehearsals this week. Men have alternated in keeping away intruders, a committee consisting of Julien Bloom, Alvah Hill and Arthur Bull, having been appointed by the league to take charge of this affair.

SUBMARINE SENDS ITALIAN LINER TO THE BOTTOM

Italian painter. Whether he escaped is not yet known. Rome advices indicated that the loss of life was heaviest among the immigrants on the boat. What proportion of the saved are passengers and sailors, dispatches have not yet indicated.

French Help Castaways
PARIS, Nov. 10.—Orders to do everything possible to help the survivors of the torpedoed Italian liner Ancona were rushed from here today.

Bizerta, where the Ancona castaways were landed, is an important French base on the Tunisian coast.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"If the Ancona has been sunk by a submarine, it is nothing short of an outrage," said the New York representative of the Italian company, "for she carried no contraband and neither was she armed. Italian liners have not been armed since the nation joined the war. Of that I am confident."

"While we have no passenger list, it is certain that the Ancona carried 300 or 400 passengers, mostly women and children in the steerage. That is her usual load at this time of the year."

"Undoubtedly there were some Americans aboard. She has never crossed yet to my recollection, that there were not some Americans aboard, sometimes as many as fifty and other times as low as six or seven."

Carried Reservists on Last Trip
It was admitted that the Ancona carried a heavy list of Italian reservists on her last trip from New York, October 17. Information regarding her cargo was denied, but it was fairly certain she carried munitions.

"Whatever she carried over," it was said at the offices, "it is certain she wasn't bringing anything back except a load of non-combatant human freight."

Was New Vessel
The Ancona was comparatively a new vessel, having seen but six years' service. She was a twin screw vessel of six thousand tons.

The Ancona was off Sardinia when she was torpedoed, Hartford said. He estimated her position from reports that she was eight or nine hours out of Naples at the time of the attack.

Before offices of the Italian line were opened this morning a crowd had begun to gather outside. They were friends and relatives of passengers on the Ancona, eager for some word as to her fate.

Other Ships in Peril?
Italian line officers compiled a table this afternoon, showing that throughout the summer each of their ships had carried from Italian ports from one to ninety-nine American passengers.

In or approaching the waters where the Ancona was torpedoed are three big liners which recently sailed from American ports, carrying more than 1,000 passengers.

The Caserta, of the Lloyd's Italian line sailed from New York November 1 for Genoa. She carries 1,200 passengers.

The Europa of the Lavello line, sailed from Naples on October 31 with 1,125 passengers.

The Cretic of the White Star line is another big vessel which may be in peril within a few hours. She sailed from Boston October 31 and was due at Gibraltar with 1,038 passengers today.

But if a man turned over a new leaf every time his wife wanted him to he would have but little time left in which to earn the price of her bonnets.

SERIOUS ISSUE THREATENS OVER ALLEGED SINKING

ties of securing a satisfactory settlement.

270 Saved
The first official report of the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona reached the state department this afternoon from American Consul White of Naples who cabled that 270 of the passengers and crew were saved.

Secretary of State Lansing this afternoon cabled to American Ambassador Page at Rome to have the American consul sent to the scene of the disaster to make a personal report to this government.

Consul White wired that two Americans, Mrs. Francisco Mascolo Lamura and minor child sailed on the Ancona from Naples.

"It is verbally reported," said the White cablegram, "that the Ancona was lost near Bizerta, off Mediterranean North Africa and that among the crew and passengers 270 were saved."

Consul White suggested that inquiry be made by the state department of the American consulate at Tunis regarding further details of the disaster.

No report has yet been received from Ambassador Page.

No light was thrown in Consul White's message of the exact circumstances of the attack on the Ancona. The cablegram did not state whether the Ancona was halted and warned. State department officials stated that American action hinges on this question of whether the Ancona tried to escape after being halted. President Wilson today was seeking all information available as to the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the Ancona.

Even though Americans were on board the Ancona, we could not protest to Austria, it was stated officially, if it was shown the Ancona tried to flee after being warned.

HE WORE WHITE GLOVES AND HE WAS TAKEN EARLY

French Cadets from Saint Cyr Mowed Down Because They Wore Hand Gear

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(By Mail.)—Once in a while you strike a soldier who has seen something and can tell about it. He is the twentieth man. With the others everything is a jumble of yells and explosions and running and falling and awakening in hospitals. A captain with a fractured thigh in a hospital here was one of the lucid ones. Said he:

"The Saturday morning of the advance everybody knew the assault was to begin at 9:15. The artillery preparation had been wonderful and the men were really impatient to get away. You can't blame them either, for it is no fun holding your hands and waiting for a thing like that."

"Some of them lighted cigars which they rolled themselves with fingers that didn't tremble a particle. Some lighted their pipes two minutes before the charge."

"Looking down the line I saw my lieutenant drawing on his white kid gloves. He was very young and this was to be his first charge. He wanted to do it properly, in Saint-Cyrian style. Had I been close enough I would have ordered him to take them off. Hundreds of Saint-Cyrian cadets were mowed down at the beginning because they insisted in wearing white gloves. It was the 'marriage of youth and war' and the groans must needs be gloved."

"As our previously regulated and compared timepieces reached 9:15 my lieutenant struck a match, lit a cigarette and leaped forward out of the trench waving his men after him. I leaped upon the parapet at the same instant, my men following me yelling something which was their effort to make 'La Marseillaise' sound above the guns."

"Men began to fall about me so I hurried the company forward into a little gully where we stopped a moment waiting for a lull. It was here that I learned of the death of my lieutenant in the white gloves. I rallied my men and started forward under a rain of machine gun fire. A shell exploded so near that I was thrown off my feet, but nothing was broken so I went on. Then a sharp nail pierced my thigh breaking the bone. The battle was over so far as I was concerned. It was only 9:30, too—fifteen minutes from the start. Rotten luck."

"I bound up my wound as best I could and waited under the greatest display of fireworks one ever saw, waited for the stretcher men. Finally two came, but near me was one of my men with a bullet in his stomach, so I directed the men to take him. I told the men to come back for me—which they did at 6 o'clock in the afternoon."

MANY WANT PARDON

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Signed by many leading Chicagoans, including the chief justice of the superior and circuit courts, ten other judges, the state's attorney who acted in the case, and several state senators, a formal petition was sent to Governor Dunne today asking a pardon for Peter Van Vliessen, alias Jim the Penman.

TWO INJURED HUNTING.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 10.—Two injured was the toll of the first day's deer hunting in Upper Michigan, according to reports coming in today. Charles Lorain was mistaken for a deer and shot in the face. Gustave Isaacson received a charge of buckshot in the back of his head. Both men will recover.

HE SAYS MILWAUKEE IS DEAD SO HE IS OFF TO MINNEAPOLIS

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 10.—A. W. Stark closed his barber shop which has caused the police to grow gray-headed trying to keep closed on Sunday, donned his black and white checked suit, loaded his automobile with the pipe organ attachment on a freight car and with his family boarded a rattler for Minneapolis. "Where they appreciate live ones."

"If you are alive in Milwaukee, you are supposed to be crazy," said Barber Stark, as he adjusted his monocle and gave his Kaiser Wilhelm mustache another twist. "Minneapolis for me."

WORLD NEEDS PENTECOST NOT ARMAGEDDON SAYS BRYAN IN HIS REPLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—William Jennings Bryan took his Bible in hand today and administered the reproof testamental to President Wilson and former President Roosevelt.

"I have read the quotation from Ezekiel," he said. "It is not surprising that Mr. Roosevelt should consult the Old Testament rather than the New, because he would class Christ with the molly-coddles. But why should the president, a Presbyterian elder, pass over the new gospel, in which love is the chief cornerstone, and build his defense upon a passage in the Old Testament written at a time when the Children of Israel were surrounded by enemies?"

"But even if the passage came from the New Testament it would not support the president's plan. The words quoted by him have reference to an actual attack. The passage says the watchman must sound the trumpet 'when he sees the sword come upon the land.' The sword has not come upon the land and no enemy is in sight. The president said in New York that we are not threatened from any quarter, that we have friendly relations with all nations and that there is no fear among us. 'It is all right for Mr. Roosevelt to sound the trumpet because all colors look red to him. He sees armies marching upon us from every direction. But the president is a man of peace and he is in a position to know that no one is threatening to attack us. It is surprising first, that in looking up Bible authority, he should ignore the teachings of Christ and, second, that he should select a passage that refers, not to preparation against imaginary dangers, but to immediate action to meet an attack actually made.'

"What the world needs today is a Pentecost, not an Armageddon."

ARTHUR COOK IS BURIED AT SALEM
Prominent Man Is Borne to Grave Today; Was a Native of La Crosse County

WEST SALEM, Wis., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Friends today bore to the grave the body of Arthur Stevens Cook, a resident of West Salem since 1877. Funeral services were held at the house at 2 o'clock. Interment took place in the village cemetery.

Arthur Stevens Cook was born at Mindoro, La Crosse county, Wisconsin, on April 10th 1856, the son of A. S. W. Cook and Eliza Stevens Cook, his wife. A year of his very early childhood was spent near Lake Geneva, Ill., with which exception his life was spent in this county.

He was married on January 1, 1887, to Miss Carrie Lovina Miller, at Mindoro, coming at once to West Salem to live. He made this his home ever since, except for four years spent in La Crosse, where he was in the employ of the C. & M. & St. R. R.

He engaged in a number of occupations, having farmed for a time, kept a livery business, and engaged in the buying and shipping of stock, having made a record for the utmost integrity in all business affairs.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Dr. Guy F. Wakefield and Mrs. Olive Cook, his little son, Master Burton Cook and one granddaughter, Miss Louise May Wakefield. He is survived also by his brother, Frank W. Cook of La Crosse, and his sister, Mrs. O. R. Tower of West Allis, Wis.

His death came Monday morning, after some months of steady decline, the assigned cause being cerebral thrombosis. His malady was not attended with much suffering and the end could hardly have been more peaceful and free from apparent distress.

It can hardly be realized by his friends that anything could have gone wrong with such a splendid specimen of physical manhood and one whose life has been a model in every way, and he will be greatly missed here.

All that could be thought of was done to find and abate the cause of his malady, the case having been taken to some of the most eminent surgeons in the middle west, but all to no effect.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR
Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

Louise Edvina, the beautiful French-Canadian opera star, arrived in New York a few days ago attired in a fetching costume patterned after the Cossack's uniform. The long three-quarter coat is edged with astrakhan and has deep cuffs and a large collar of the same material. A charming turban of like material gives the wearer a chic air. The belt is a girde affair, heavily embroidered and elaborately trimmed with silver.

FLOOR LEADERS TO BE SIDE-TRACKED IN DEFENSE ISSUE

Kern in the Senate and Kitchin in House Not to Have Charge of Program

BOTH ARE OPPOSED TO PLAY

It Is Planned to Introduce Bills Simultaneously in Both Houses to Aid Passage

BY BOND P. GEDDES.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Democratic floor leaders in both the senate and house are to be sidetracked by the administration. It was learned today, in handling passage of the national defense program.

Senator Kern, leader in the senate, and Representative Kitchin, house leader, will not have charge of the preparedness legislation. Secretary of War Garrison has already reached an agreement with Chairman Hay of the house military commission for Hay to take charge of the army bill in the lower chamber. Chairman Padgett of the house naval committee will have charge of Secretary Daniels' building plan.

In the senate, Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee, will act. Because of the physical infirmities, Chairman Tallman of the naval committee will yield leadership on the naval bill, probably to Senator Swanson of Virginia. Kitchin, administration leaders feel, has disqualified himself so far as the defense bills are concerned, because of his refusal to support the administration's naval program. Senator Kern will yield to Chamberlain because it is the latter's own field. Kern is also regarded as lukewarm toward the program, having given statements in Indiana opposing a big program before he recently announced himself for it.

The administration now plans to have defense bills introduced simultaneously in the senate and house to expedite passage in either body according to relative business congestion.

Another problem before the administration today was the demand for "pork barrel" legislation.

CHANGE MADE IN ENGINEER'S POST AT KANSAS CITY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—A war department order today relieved Lieutenant Colonel Deakne of the army engineers from duty at Kansas City. He will be succeeded by Lieutenant Colonel McIndoe, returning from the Philippines.

Colonel Deakne made the unfavorable report on continuing government improvements on the Missouri river at Kansas City. Commercial organizations of the Missouri river country have vigorously protested against discontinuing the work and the general board recently held a special investigation. Colonel Deakne will go to Fort Leavenworth for a special training course for staff officers.

LABOR DELEGATES PROMISE TROUBLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The routine of the American Federation of Labor convention here today promised to be interrupted by a heated debate over the expulsion of L. P. Straub, leader of the street-typers' sympathetic walkout in Chicago at the time a number of union pressmen went on strike there. The Chicago labor federation defended Straub as an ardent laborite deserving commendation rather than censure and is prepared to carry the fight to the floor of the convention.

CORSICANA, Texas, Nov. 10.—Twenty-one neighbors of Miss Alma Morgan, the young society woman who yesterday shot Allen Godley in circuit court when the latter refused to acknowledge he was the father of her nine-months-old baby, today signed a $1,000 bond for her appearance before the grand jury.

BANDITS GET LONG TERMS

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 10.—Richard Miller, who has a police record in St. Paul and also served time in the Missouri penitentiary, and William Billinski, two of the "polka dot" bandits who have terrorized Milwaukee saloonkeepers by the daring hold-ups during the last few weeks, were today sentenced to serve thirty years in the state penitentiary at Waupun by Judge A. C. Backus.

CRACKSMEN ROB POSTOFFICE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 10.—Cracksmen completely wrecked the Osseo postoffice building today and took $235 in money and stamps. The robbery was not discovered until daybreak. Residents who heard the blast thought it was thunder. The robbers fled from Minneapolis in an automobile.

HIGHS WORK HARD ST. PAUL CENTRAL GAME IN OFFING

Horne's Men Work Hard for Tussle with Strongest Team of Three States

Strenuous workouts for the remaining few days previous to the St.
Paul Central game was the program handed out by Coach Horne last night to his prospective state champions. Two days of nearly complete layoff since last Saturday are to be followed by the stiffest practice of the season. The Red and Black machine must prepare itself this week
to play the best team in three neighboring states.
The date of November 20 is on every tongue.
La Crosse will be opposed by the strongest eleven in the states of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, the team which to date has defeated everything on its schedule—
including the high schools of Minneapolis West High, whom they play
Friday for the championship of the Twin Cities. The event will be of particular interest to local enthusiasts,
as it will not only decide the championship of the Twin cities, but will give a line on the strength of the Central eleven and the individual members of the squad, which information will be of value in the contest here.

The Game Will be Played Here
The game will, without question,
be the hardest one on the local football calendar, and although not having any bearing on the state title, is not considered a no-account game
by the Red and Black. Madison comes Thursday night and a splendid Thanksgiving day and a splendid game is assured. The capital city team is not greatly feared by La Crosse, however, since their elimination from the state title race a few weeks ago.

GALVIN RESIGNS FOLLOWING CHARGES LYNN SMITH BACK

Fullback Turns in His Suit
Although Nothing Is Discovered Against Him

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 10.—Mal
Galvin, star fullback on the University of Wisconsin football team, who was privately protested last week
by Chairman Page of the Minnesota athletic council, turned in his suit Monday night as a result of the investigations into his amateur rating.
Galvin's resignation from the team came as an unexpected blow to the varsity's chances against Illinois
on Saturday. His case was investigated last week and nothing could then or has yet been found against him, but due to their continued investigation he thought it best to get out of it all and in a formal note to Dr. G. W. Ehler, director of athletic,
he resigned from further athletic competitions for the Badgers.

BETS ON ANDERSON

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Frank Salter, St. Paul, bet $100 to $200 that Andre Anderson will knock out Fred Fulton within ten rounds at Milwaukee November 17. He also bet $200 even Anderson would get the newspaper decision.

BILLIARDS

Arthur Roehrer, 65, defeated John Rau, 90, by a score of 65 to 88 in the

ONLY THREE TEAMS STAY IN RUNNING FOR STATE TITLE

La Crosse, Milwaukee East and Monroe the Lone Squads Not Yet Defeated

MILWAUKEE EAST A FACTOR
Locals' Hopes Based on West to Defeat East, for Monroe Is Not Serious
Contender

Saturday's play did much to clear the championship horizon of the state. Last year, at this time, there were eight strong teams going well
and at the close of the season four teams, Milwaukee West, East Green Bay, Chippewa Falls and La Crosse remained undefeated. This year there are but three teams which seem to be in line for the championship
title. "La Crosse, Milwaukee East and Monroe. La Crosse students have the "dope" figured out in this way.
Madison defeated Oshkosh, 7 to 6.
Oshkosh defeated West Green Bay, 13 to 0. East Green Bay forfeited to Oconto. From the above scores and from the reports of the great strength of the Green Bay schools,
the conclusion would naturally be drawn that Madison must have some team. But looking back it is found that Madison barely nosed out To-mah, 7 to 0, while La Crosse defeated the same team 41 to 0. Here is gained some idea of the comparative strength of La Crosse and the southern and eastern schools of the state.

Monroe Has Small Claim

The one claim of any consequence that Monroe has to the championship gonfalon is their defeat of Madison three weeks ago by the score of 7 to 6. A week later they defeated Janesville, 14 to 0, making them think they had a real team, but Madison's 30 to 0 victory last Saturday over that same team makes the Monroe-Madison score look like a fluke.

Milwaukee East Strong

The one undefeated northern team is Ashland but as they have not met a single team of any strength, they can not be considered at this time.
Milwaukee East seems to be the only team on a par with Coach Horne's men. They have won all their games although they have not equalled the La Crosse record of scoring 201 points to their opponents' 3. They have yet to play their hardest game, however, meeting
West Division a week from Saturday.
Early in the season West was defeated by Beloit, 3 to 0, and at that stage of the game one defeat means elimination. They have recovered
two of their old stars and greatly improved since then, however, as was shown in their 30 to 0 victory over North Division last Saturday. East defeated this same team 21 to 0 two weeks ago, indicating that the battle on November 20 will be a hard
one. La Crosse will set their hopes on West for a win by this team and a La Crosse victory over Madison which the dope says should come would leave the Red and Black as the one team with a clear record for championship honors.

REINSTATEMENT IMPROBABLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Friends of Abel Kiviat, famous Olympic athlete and Harry Smith, prominent in amateur circles, had little hope today of seeing their reinstatement by the Metropolitan Association of the
A. A. U. By a vote of 50 to 6, the board refused their appeal.

WELLING LOOMS UP A CONTENDER BY BEATING SHERMAN

McFarland in the Corner Pilots Chicago Comer
to Victory Over Strong Boy

BY J. P. YODER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A Packey
McFarland-sized Joe Welling stands out as a top notch claimant for the right to fight the best lightweights
in the game. With the great Packey
in his corner last night at Gary, Ind., directing almost every blow he delivered, Welling proved an apt pupil and earned a slashing newspaper decision over Joe Sherman in ten rounds.
The bout was a hummer. The boys fought themselves out of every
hug. Backhand wallops were plentiful. Vicious elbow jabs were so numerous the referee stopped noticing
them after the first few rounds.
There was so much head butting at times that it looked like two Bat
Nelson's were in the ring.
Welling's placing of punches was great. He had an eye and an ear turned forever in Packey McFarland's direction, and he followed orders so closely and carefully that each wallop had the appearance of having been started from an imaginary trigger of Packey's manipulation.
Sherman has one thing to make him chasty about last night's fracas.
He assimilated enough punishment
after the second round to have doubted a less hardy fighter, and he always kept coming back for more.

dent of Third League with Third Vice President

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 10.—
The franchise of the Kansas City and Buffalo Federal league baseball clubs were forfeited Tuesday afternoon by the board of directors of the league.
The Kansas City franchise will be transferred to New York city and the team will be strengthened "to the extent of making it a representative
New York club, which will surely merit the support of the New York fans."
Gilmore was re-elected president and treasurer. George F. Ward was elected vice president and Thomas W. Gilmore was elected secretary of the league.

THE SILO Wherein is Fodder for Farmers

CAREFUL HANDLING IS REQUIRED WITH BLASTING CAPS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 10.—Blasting caps are more easily discharged than dynamite. Farmers should be careful in using them in land clearing operations, as they contain the same explosive used in the primer
of a shot gun shell, and are highly sensitive and dangerous in the hands of blundering persons.
A few points to remember when using blasting caps or detonators, as they are sometimes called, are given by Carl Livingston, of the department of agriculture engineering, University of Wisconsin:
Keep blasting caps dry and away
from steam.
If soap is used to make the connection water tight, it should not contain much moisture. Common yellow laundry soap is preferable.
Never pick at the white contents
of a cap.
When putting the fuse in the cap,
have three inches at the end straightened so that the cap will slide over the fuse with ease. When it stops, exert no further pressure.
Do not crimp the cap with the teeth or an improvised instrument.
Use a crimper, made for the purpose.
When hauling, wrap boxes in a grain sack or horse blanket to protect them from sudden jars and jolts.
Never carry blasting caps loose in the pocket, and never leave them loose in the dynamite box where a knife or crimper may strike against them.
As a further precaution, Mr. Livingston has designed a special box for carrying blasting caps. The details of its construction may be obtained upon writing to the department of agricultural engineering, University of Wisconsin, Madison.
Poultry Man Leaves
M. E. Dickson, who for the past three years has been instructor in poultry in husbandry at the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed head of the poultry department recently established at the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Mr.
Dickson is a graduate of the Michigan College of Agriculture.

CHICAGO WOMEN FOR SMILING TOYS

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Toys and smiles in them as Christmas gifts
for children were urged by prominent Chicago women today, who unanimously accepted the idea of New York women that smiling dolls
as Christmas toys are far more suitable than tin soldiers and toy guns,
which foster the military spirit.
"Any toy that causes smile or laughter is a beautiful toy," said
Jane Addams, head of Hull house.
"There is too much military spirit.
It is wrong to encourage this spirit with military toys. I am in favor of anything that will take away the thought of war from the children. I would suggest even a ban on the khaki suits and warlike hats and caps."
"We want laughing children, not warlike boys," said Mrs. Ruth Ogden Harrison, who has written children's books and plays, and is the wife of ex-Mayor Carter H. Harrison. "I think smiling dolls a beautiful toy for the children. This is the time to give them something to laugh with,
not a gun, sword or tin soldier, giving such gifts at this time is silly and horrible. Silly because it fosters a military spirit and horrible because of what is happening in Europe. This is the time to instill loving and peaceful thoughts in the children."

ed an easy program in preparation

NEW YORK WILL BE FINANCIAL HUB SAYS FRENCHMAN

He Says Civilization and Finance Moves Westward to Discomfiture of London

WILL BUY MACHINERY HERE

Visiting Commission Says
France Cannot Buy in Europe and Must Turn to the U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"New York is certain to supplant London
as the financial center of the world
—if not immediately after the war,
at least in the near future."
Members of the French trade commission which arrived here yesterday
so expressed themselves today before leaving for Washington to meet Ambassador Jusserand and administration officials.
"We should not like to have our friends in England hear us say it, perhaps," said M. Chouffour, Paris banker, vigorously polishing his monocle. "But, nevertheless, it is a fact. Civilization and also finance moves westward. London may not like it, but it is inevitable."

Maurice D'Amour, chairman of the commission, explained that the visit is being made to America not for the purpose of entering into contracts,
but to look over machinery factories with a view to future purchases. If the results of a two or three months
tour of American industrial plants prove satisfactory, he said, he saw no reason why the $160,000,000 that France annually spends in Germany for machinery should not be spent in the United States provided that America reciprocates by making such purchases as she can in France.

Cannot Trade With Germans
"We didn't come here to buy,"
said D'Amour, who is secretary of the appropriations committee of the French chamber of deputies. "When we throw the Germans out"—and D'Amour made violent gestures with both hands, as if he were engaged in that operation—"well, the fat man over there (pointing to the exceedingly slender E. De La Salle-Thiriz, an expert on spinning machinery)
will tell the government just what we need."

"We might buy from England after the war, but England's prices are too dear and England will need what she can produce."

"We cannot buy from Germany
after the war, not for years—it is impossible—well, perhaps"—and D'Amour's eyes twinkled—"perhaps after fifty years we shall forget—we shall see."
"But if we find things satisfactory here then the end of the war will see a grand restoration of trade between France and the United States
on a permanent basis."

France Against Peace, He Says
Three of the five members of the commission have seen service at the French front. All repudiated indignantly the thought that France will consider peace at this time.

"Foolish! Foolish!" exclaimed D'Amour, bringing both hands down upon the table with a vigorous smash. "Oh, Monsieur, that is impossible. We must go on to the end.
Peace talk is only German work.
There is no feeling like that in France."

The itinerary of the commission is in the hands of the New York chamber of commerce. It includes tours to all the principal manufacturing centers in the country. The commissioners expect to start their trips
of inspection on their return from Washington tomorrow.

BANK SAFE BLOWN FOR BIG AMOUNT

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Nov. 10.—The Farmers bank at Matherville, near here, was entered early this morning by four yeggmen, who wrecked the safe with four explosions and secured $1,800 in cash and escaped. Police of the Tri-cities and neighboring towns and the sheriffs of neighboring counties are searching for the safe-blowers today.

GERMAN PRINCESS STATES WOMEN AT HOME WOULD FIGHT

Princess Elizabeth von Hatzfeldt Trachenberg.

"Rather than see the Fatherland vanquished or dishonored, the women of Germany stand ready to go into the trenches and fight until they drop. But, thank God, that will never be necessary. While there is a single son of Germany left in the field, its women will be protected." Thus declares Princess Elizabeth Hatzfeldt von Trachenberg, wife of the counsellor of the German embassy at Washington. She has just returned to this country after a visit in Germany.

The agricultural experiment station maintains an experimental bog in this district and is helping growers by propagating new varieties of plants and by studying methods of insect and disease control.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every particle of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

SCHOOL TEACHER THROWS MAD DOG THROUGH WINDOW
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 10.—Miss Edith Flannagan, pretty young teacher in Washington park public school, East St. Louis, qualified as a hero in yesterday when it became known that last Friday she fought a bull dog that ran into the classroom, snapping at the children, and threw it through a window. Miss Flannagan was bitten twice, but has returned to her class after treatment. Gertrude Dauby, ten years old, a pupil, who was also bitten by the dog, is too ill to return to school.

The incident came to light when a warrant was issued against the owner of the dog. The animal is being observed for symptoms of rabies.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Attorneys for Mrs. Scott Durand, whose famed $40,000 herd of Guernsey cattle was slaughtered late yesterday afternoon in a sensational dash on her Crabtree farm by the Lake county sheriff, today discussed several methods of procedure in the now well known case.

After a brief conference, Attorneys Robert S. Iles and Charles J. O'Connor said they are considering the following possible action: Demand for contempt proceedings against Governor Dunne, Sheriff Griffen and Dr. Dyson, state veterinarian and the latter's aides, on the allegation that the slaughter of the animals was opposed to a ruling by Judge Edwards.

Demand for grand jury action against the governor, sheriff and state veterinarian on possible charges of conspiracy; and investigation of possible charges of assault with a deadly weapon that may be made by Mrs. Durand against the sheriff and his deputies.

CLEANSE THE BLOOD BEFORE WINTER

Free yourself from the menace of bad health when the cold and wet sets in. Sufferers from Catarrh, Rheumatism, and Eczema are worse in winter. Take S. S. S. now.

Advice of this character has been given by our trained specialists year after year as summer began to wane and the coming of Fall heralded the time when storms and cold are near. We repeat this warning ere. Sufferers from Catarrh will undoubtedly find the symptoms much aggravated as Winter approaches. With the first chill blasts the Rheumatism lets itself be felt. There are forms of winter Eczema—one in particular—called Tetter that causes real suffering when cold weather comes. The mere aches and minor pains of Rheumatism not only change in winter, but the changes are apt to be so decided in their violence as to cause the most intense suffering. Horrible aching pains in the limbs, in the back, in the joints, even rheumatic pains in the head and face sometimes supposed to be neuralgia. Catarrh is back again, more intense than last winter with the continual hawking and spitting, headaches, dripping of phlegm in the nose and throat, the stopped air passages and the foetid odor from the breath. Is it not a common-sense thing to do to avoid these troubles, to eradicate them from the system when it can be so easily done with a positive remedy such as S. S. S.? Remember, first of all, that the troubles we mention are blood troubles—deep-seated ones. Laugh at the man who recommends lotions, salves and local medicines. The trouble must be washed out of the blood. Thousands of people have been permanently relieved of blood and skin diseases of every kind by the use of S. S. S., and many of those who, perhaps, at first did not find the results entirely satisfactory, wrote our physicians a full statement of their case, and a little advice hastened the relief. The only reason for wanting you to write us is that we may use every effort to see that you get the best result from the medicine. You can then help us by advising your friends to use S. S. S., which you will know from experience is all we claim for it. You can write with the assurance that all correspondence is held in strictest confidence, and that our physicians will give you helpful advice without charge. For sale at all drug stores. Refuse substitutes. Write the Swift Specific Company, Medical Department, Room 14, Atlanta, Ga.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—"All this talk of peace is misplaced." This statement was made by French Premier Aristide Briand today. He addressed a group of American correspondents to whom he had granted the first audience of the kind ever accorded by a French cabinet official.

It was a gathering very similar to President Wilson's Tuesday reception of the correspondents in Washington. The American newspapermen were allowed to ask whatever questions they chose and the premier answered as many as possible.

"You may rest assured," he continued, "that it is not the French who start these peace rumors. Until our soldiers, fighting and dying on yonder in the trenches, have won decisive victories we shall not talk peace in Paris."

Such was the French prime minister's answer to a query concerning the authenticity of Spanish, Swiss, Greek and American peace hints, suggestions and rumors.

The Balkan problem he would not discuss, since military operations by the allies are just budding there.

After several other questions had passed unanswered Briand explained: "Perhaps later I shall be able to talk more freely. The government is of the opinion now that this is not a time for words. It is a time for deeds."

Will Help Newspapersmen
The premier promised to use his personal influence with the officials of the censorship bureau in the interest of the promptest possible transmission of news dispatches to America.

To another suggestion, he replied that he would confer with General Joffre with a view to securing as many permits as he could for American correspondents to visit the fighting front, adding that he realized the newspaper representatives' stories were better than official communications.

"France has nothing to hide from anybody," he said. "Only military expediency prevents us from allowing you complete liberty in your work of gathering news."

BUFFALO COUNTY FARMING SYSTEM IS AT ITS BEST

Federal Department of Agriculture Compiles Report on the County

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—The system of agriculture practiced at present in Buffalo county is better than at any time in the past. This is the conclusion reached by the department of agriculture as the result of a study, conducted in co-operation with the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey, of the soils of this county—a soil survey completed during the field season of 1913.

A report of this work has just been published. It consists of fifty printed pages, and is accompanied by a large map in colors showing the distribution of the different soils of the county, and the location of churches, schoolhouses, highways, water-courses and other physical features.

Buffalo county has passed from a mainly wheat producing section to a mainly dairying section. Most of the leading crop products of the farm, which consist of oats, hay and corn—ranking in importance in the order named—is fed to live stock, chiefly dairy cattle and hogs, though a part of the production of oats, or which over one and one-third million bushels were harvested, is sold at local or nearby elevators. Much of the 800,000 bushels of corn is fed to hogs, and corn forms an increasingly important product in the filling of silos on the dairy farms.

Seventeen cheese factories and ten creameries situated in different parts of the county take the bulk of the milk produced, the type of dairying being based upon the manufacture of finished products, rather than on the sale of milk to be consumed in the raw state.

A greater portion of the area of Buffalo county is occupied by productive soils and the improvements on farms are of good substantial character. Improvements vary with the type of farming land, however, and, as one would expect, are least valuable on the very sandy types, which fortunately form only a small part of the cultivable area. There is a larger proportion, 62,712 acres, or 14.3 per cent of the area of the county, of rough stony land, but this forms pasture and, therefore, is an asset of some value on many of the dairy farms.

Soils

Three general divisions are easily recognizable in Buffalo county: (1.) The uplands proper, which are gently undulating to strongly rolling and in places even steep and rough in topography; (2.) the terraces and level valley occurring in the position of terraces; and (3.) the over flow plains of the present streams.

Over 70 per cent of the area of the county is occupied by upland soils, of which the Boone series is most extensive. These are light-colored soils derived from sandstone and shale. They are among the most valuable types in the county and are used for dairying. Good yields of the general farm crops are obtained, the quality of the small grains being notably superior to the products of the dark-colored soils. Considerable areas of rolling phases of the Boone silt loam and Boone fine sandy loam are used for pasture, and some especially rough areas remain in forest.

Another light-colored upland soil has been mapped as the Union silt loam and as a steep phase of this type. The greater part of the area of the typical soil is under cultivation, but most of the steep phase is still in pasture and forest. This is the best small-grain soil in the county. Corn does not do as well on this or the other light-colored soils as on those of dark color. Dairying and

IF BACKACHEY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat, also take glass of Salts before eating breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Unfilled tonnage a year ago was 3,461,097 tons.

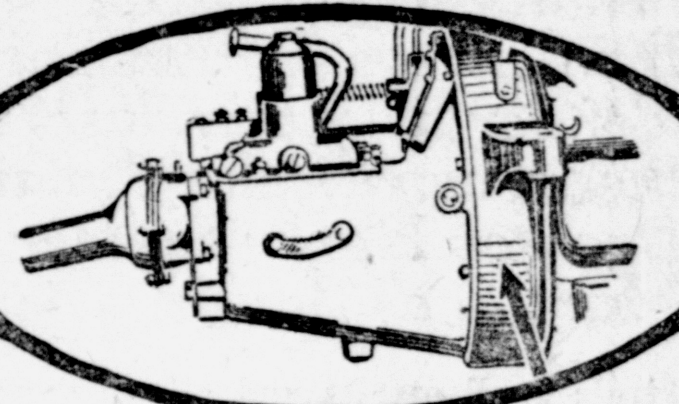

uplands has been mapped as the Lintonia silt loam. Practically all this soil, except eroded areas, is put to some agricultural use, and most of it is cultivated regularly. Eroded areas are in pasture or used in the production of hay. The type of farming is like that found in the uplands, and the yields of the staple crops compare favorably with those on the more extensive upland soils. The Lintonia fine sandy loam is less extensive than the silt loam and not quite so desirable a type; the fine sand is negligible on account of its small extent.

Somewhat less desirable soils found on the terraces are classed with the Plainfield series. The soils are light textured, which accounts for the lower yields of the staple crops obtained. The Plainfield sand is the more extensive of the two types of this series mapped in Buffalo county. It is inclined to droughtiness.

In the river bottoms the soil materials have been classed as meadow, a poorly drained type including material of varying textures of little present agricultural value, and the Wabash loam, a type, which though subject to overflow, is much better adapted to reclamation than meadow. At present the cutting of hay

There are some 6,400 acres of peat shown on the soil map. The areas of this soil, which is composed mainly of decaying vegetation, lie

Boost For Hintgen

The report dwelt at length upon the efficient work of Commissioner Hintgen, and proposed an increase in his salary. All items included in the report will be made a special order of business for Friday's session, and will the annual election of officers.

Portions of the road report follow:

"At the outset we wish to commend the work that has been done under the direction of the county highway commissioner, and to approve of what the several towns have planned in extending the system of improved highways. We were exceedingly gratified to note the extent and quality of the work that has been done in this county in both grading and surfacing, and that all the work is in accordance with the methods and specifications of the best highway engineering practice."

"The attention of the public should be brought to the necessity for first improving the main traveled highways and that as far as possible the system of improvement be continuous and with a view of reducing the cost of road construction and providing for a connected system. There has been a great deal done under the direction of Commissioner Hintgen in the reducing of grades, the elimination of dangerous curves by straightening the lines of highways and a proper drainage of the roads."

County for Good Roads

"The committee visited every town in the county on its automobile trip, and was pleased to note the deep interest manifested by the several town boards in the matter of road improvement; an interest not only in road construction, but in the greater meaning in the project and its public significance. It is believed that the town boards reflect public sentiment, which is unanimous in supporting and encouraging the good road movement in La Crosse county."

Some of the proposals of the road and bridge committee, included in its report are as follows:

Town of Shelby—Mormon Coulee road will soon need resurfacing, and a proposal to pave the highway in brick and permanently do away with re-paving will be brought before the board members. An improvement of the State Road Coulee ridge road is planned by the committee.

Town of Greenfield—Proposals made for a continuation of road surfacing, bridge work, and the straightening out of Greenfield's main highway, first looked into by the board at its last session.

Negotiate With Town of Coon

Town of Washington—The committee proposes to relay parts of the two main highways running north-south and south-south through the town. Negotiations are now under way with the town of Coon, in Vernon county, to have the Bohemian Coulee road re-laid near where it joins the highway in the town of Coon.

Town of Bangor—Work of grading the main highway known as the Dutch Creek road is being continued from year to year. Appropriations have been made for continuing the work to the south line of the town. Surfacing work is being done annually on the highway leading east from the village of Bangor, and the town has liberally set aside funds for improving Fish Creek road.

Town of Burns—The committee was called upon to investigate improvements to the Adams Valley Hill road. It recommends the highway be re-graded. Committee members recommend that appropriations be made for macadamizing the main highway leading to the Monroe county line, one of the main thoroughfares between La Crosse and the counties to the east. It is proposed ed that the North road, leading to the town of Hamilton be surfaced.

Town of Hamilton—The board will be asked to appropriate a sum of money for joining the several stretches of improved highways. It recommends the improving of Wet Coulee road.

Town of Farmington—According to the committee's report, the fact that the board has been forced to spend large sums for replacing bridges has hindered it from appropriating aid for the highways, but in spite of this the town has been maintaining its roads in first class shape.

Town of Barre—The committee contends that highway work accomplished already in Barre, and other work planned, is one of the best examples of consistent road building in the county.

Town of Holland—The committee

TO END CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parment (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

BULGARS SAID TO HAVE ARRANGED TO KEEP GREECE QUIET

Sofia Government Promises, It Is Said, to Demobilize If Possible, After Close of Serb Campaign

WILL NOT TAKE MONASTIR?

Athens Said to Consider Occupation of Stronghold By Bulgarians a Menace

ATHENS, Nov. 10.—Bulgaria and Greece reached an agreement Tuesday which will keep Greece out of the war, according to the Athens press today.

Bulgaria, these accounts say, will demobilize at the end of its Serbian campaign and promise not to cross the Doiran-Guevgyeli line, nor to enter Monastir.

Should military operations against Monastir become absolutely necessary, it is arranged that Germany shall conduct them without Bulgarian participation.

Guevgyeli is the first Serbian town north of the Serbo-Greek frontier from which it is hardly a gunshot distant. Doiran is five miles farther north. Both are on the Nish-Salonika railroad.

This means a Bulgarian pledge to keep outside Greece.

Monastir, in southwestern Serbia, eight miles north of the Greek frontier, is a point where the Greeks consider that a Bulgarian stronghold would menace their territory. They take it for granted, however, that Germany would have no object in holding it except as a temporary military necessity.

Though the arrangement outlined is deemed at least in anti-war circles here, of a nature to safeguard Greece, it would not seriously hamper Bulgaria in her plans for the conquest of most of Serbian Macedonia.

The Athens newspapers quote "diplomatic authority" for their information.

Thought Concentration.

To do one thing at a time, to keep doing it, to reach absolute concentration, makes the doing of good absolutely essential. We can't possibly concentrate on what is evil. The healthy forces of being rebel. The soul looks on appalled, crying its warnings. The nerves refuse to transmit pleasant sensations. There are repeated reactions against the wrong-doing in the system, denials and protests that keep the mind in turbulence. When we hear of the adventures of the self-indulgers we always get biased reports. It is for this reason that they are so misleading and harmful. For example, we never hear of the excitability in this kind of living, the fever, the distraction, the upset, the loss of serenity that is so important a factor in meeting the circumstances of each day, the inability to live in the realm of self-forgetfulness.

approved plans of the township to improve the South Creek Hill road, and suggests that the road leading from Stevenston be widened, and repaired.

Repairs Needed

Town of Onalaska—Committee members recommended that the two macadam roads be connected with the improved highways in the town of Holland. The highway leading from Midway to Holmen needs resurfacing, according to the report.

The committee's report suggests certain improvements in the villages of the county, and makes a plea for a definite plan for conserving roads already built. The report points out that the best roads wear away rapidly unless continually gone over.

With the road report was read a communication from the state highway commission, which declared La Crosse county is among the foremost counties of Wisconsin in road building and maintenance, and commended especially the work of Commissioner Hintgen.

The annual report of the LaCrosse County School of Agriculture at Onalaska showed a small increase in attendance over last year, and a steady growth in each department. The report stated that sixty-eight students are now in attendance, forty of whom are boys. The number of graduates from the institution since its opening is 145. Last year's enrollment was fifty-five. Last year was the first in which the school tried both the two and four year courses, and according to the report, the plan is working out to advantage. The school is now instituting the "Winter Short Course," which begins January 1.

Want Pure Bred Herd

The board of directors ask the supervisors for the sum of $2,000 for the establishment of a pure-bred herd of cattle. It is proposed to buy registered cows of the Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey variety. This, it is said, will be a better representation of the dairy industry of La Crosse county.

Eighteen evening meetings have been held during the present year in the rural schools. One-day farmers' institutes have been held at Bangor and Mindoro, and the report told of the Farmers' and Homemakers' conference held at the "aggie" school for three days.

The estimated budget of operating expenses of the school next year is $16,500.

To Eat at Aggie

The board yesterday afternoon accepted an invitation of the board of directors to visit the school of agriculture for dinner Friday noon. The junket will be made in automobiles offered for the trip by some of the supervisors.

Under this heading I will run a series of educational articles from time to time. Read them, digest them and be benefited by them.

For the past year I have been talking prices to you, now let's change the subject and talk quality.

The simple fact that some competitors have lowered their prices is the one best argument that I am able to produce to convince you that the quality of my work is recognized as superior by other dentists. This is enough. I have told you that I use only the best materials and this I am able to prove by the three dental supply houses of this city and by dentists who have seen and examined my work.

My first article of the above mentioned series will be on the subject of children's teeth and will appear in this paper on Monday of next week.

FIRE DESTROYS BETHLEHEM SHOP

Great Munitions Plant Suffers Million Dollar Blaze Early Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Bethlehem Steel, the star of the war stocks, felt the effect of the million dollar fire this afternoon when it dropped to $400 a share, a loss of $35 a share from the previous stock exchange closing quotation.

On July 30, 1914, when the war started, Bethlehem was quoted at $30. On October 22 of this year it set a record high price of $600 a share.

SOUTH BETHELEM, Pa., Nov. 10.—Fire destroyed number four machine shop of the Bethlehem Steel company this morning, entailing a loss of $1,000,000. In this building are manufactured guns of various calibers.

Munitions for the allies and machinery worth several million dollars in the building was badly damaged.

The fire started in what is known as the boring mill section and spread with such rapidity the entire fire fighting force of the steel works and departments from four neighboring boroughs were called out. Only the skeleton of the big building is standing.

The fire was caused by explosion following the short circuiting of electric wires, a spark from which ignited a pit of oil.

The building was completely destroyed.

Struck the Wrong Pitch.

A program had been arranged for visiting day in the school at Newington, N. H. The music had been rehearsed in the town hall over the school, as the hall could boast a piano and the school had none. Dan had asked and received permission to sing a hymn in honor of the minister, who was to be present. Dan had a sweet voice and plenty of confidence. On the day of the entertainment he came forward to the platform and in a high-pitched monotone announced impressively, "My God—it's too high!" and stopped. There was a horrified silence while the teacher struggled to control her voice. "Dan has always rehearsed with the piano," she explained. "Begin again, Dan, and pitch it lower this time." To the relief of the audience Dan began again. "My God, from out whose bounteous hand—" and finished without further mishap.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Irritability, oversensitiveness, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, dizziness—these are symptoms of nervous exhaustion, neurasthenia.

Very often the patient feels best and brightest at night. Rest seems to bring no refreshment, the nervous system fails to recuperate. This distressing condition is caused by worry more often than by any other one thing. Overwork and worry invite the disorder.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50. Begin the treatment at once before your condition becomes chronic.

Two useful books, "Diseases of the Nervous System," and "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

"Honest Abe" Is Big Character In Griffith Classic

President Lincoln Praying for Guidance—A Scene From "The Birth of a Nation."

The great war president, Abraham Lincoln, who was a martyr to a fanatical southerner just when the war was ended, is one of the chief characters in "The Birth of a Nation," Griffith's motion picture masterpiece, which will play at the Majestic theater all next week, beginning Sunday.

The appeal to the "great heart" by a southern mother whose son is condemned to die as a spy, is one of the touching features of the Birth of a Nation spectacle and characteristic, too, of Lincoln's experiences of those days. The Ford's Theater scene, including the assassination of the president, is of particular value since the reproduction of the interior of the old playhouse, including the scenic setting which was on the stage at the fatal moment, is as near exact as art and money could make possible.

The part covering the reconstruction period sets forth vividly Lincoln's charitable policy toward the south, also the many difficult problems arising from the attempts of the white and black races to dwell together on political equal terms.

Here it has been said some of the features are overdrawn, but possibly no more than necessity demanded to convey accurately and quickly to the people the impending dangers with which the southern people were called upon to cope.

The necessity of educating the negro, recently a slave, is potentially evident.

Overcoming Opposition.

Keeping sweet in spite of opposition is never a sign of amiable weakness; only the strongest can do it. Therefore such keeping sweet is an irresistible attack on the opposition, and will convert it to friendliness or agreement if anything can. One man who is often right in his convictions, and who is able to express them clearly, wonders why it is that he has difficulty in getting others to agree with him. The whole trouble lies in his oversensitiveness to the disagreement of those whom he would convince. The instant they show or express a difference of opinion, he "flares up," and his opportunity and power are gone. Another man keeps undisturbed and smiling in the face of disagreement, and wins men to his side in most that he has to say. The difference between the two men is not in the truth that they present, but in the way that they present it. The surer we are that we are right, the more important it is that we should not dishonor our message and lose our case by antagonizing those whom we ought to win.

With No Opposition.

"I'm going to ask her to be queen of my home," said the enamored youth. "Yes," replied the cynic, "and she'll accept with the idea that the home is to be an absolute monarchy." —Topeka Star.

GRAND JURY DELAY HALTS THE TRIAL OF DENNIS SMITH

If Indictment Is Returned in Time He Will Face Court at Preston Late Today

Dennis Smith, 21-year-old farm-hand employed by James E. Brewster, near Pleasant Grove, Minn., who shot and killed Robert Brewster, son of his employer, on the night of November 1, as he was talking to Miss Irene King, a domestic, in the kitchen of his father's home, will be brought into court either late this afternoon or tomorrow. The information was given out by S. C. Patridge of Spring Valley, Minn., county attorney of Fillmore county, who will prosecute Smith.

The grand jury, which is now in session, has not yet returned an indictment of Smith, according to the prosecuting attorney. It is expected that the grand jury will finish its preliminary work late this afternoon. In case Smith, when taken into court, pleads not guilty, his case will probably come to trial some time early next week.

The murderer maintains his good spirits, it was said this morning. He was captured the day after the shooting in an empty house in the woods a short distance from the shooting, and he then said that he did not regret the shooting. He has not changed his mind, having told several visitors to the Preston jail, where he is confined, that he is not sorry he shot and killed young Brewster.

Gray and Thompson of Preston have been retained to defend Smith.

Why He Cut His Hair.

There is a certain surgeon in Boston who had, some months ago, a very splendid crop of hair. Although the surgeon is not old, his hair is snow-white, and he is very proud of its beauty. He wore it parted in the middle and rather long, and it fluffed luxuriantly on either side of the part. The impulse toward a change in hair-dressing came to the surgeon in this manner: He had operated upon a woman, and was bending over her as she began to come out of the ether. She opened her eyes for a moment, and then closed them again. Then with a long sigh and in a rapid voice she said: "What a beautiful white chrysanthemum!" The students present exploded, and now the surgeon wears his hair cut as close as a gentleman may.

Value of Various Foods.

Butter would be a highly energizing food for the body, but proves worthless as an upbuilder, a repairer of the waste constantly going on with every breath inhaled—exhaled because of its lack of protein content. The same rule holds good with starch and sugar, carbohydrates, heat-givers or producers.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—War stocks lead a break in the stock market around noon today. Bear traders raided the market in the face of a favorable steel tonnage report.

United States Steel sold at 81 1/2, shortly before 1 o'clock, a loss of 1 1/4 from the day's high. Crucible was down six from high, selling at 69 1/2; Baldwin off 8 at 108 1/2, and Lackawanna Steel lost five points at 69.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Opening prices on the Stock exchange today were generally under Tuesday's close, but fractional recoveries were general during the first few minutes' trading. Stocks were dumped on the market on the decline and at 2 o'clock 975,000 shares had been sold. Standard issues met support and by that hour prices had recovered to the highest of the day. Steel was quoted at 85 1/2. Southern Pacific at 102 3/4, Canadian Pacific 186 3/4 and Union Pacific at 137 1/2, showing gains of 2 to 5 points over the day's low marks.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Wheat prices were higher today. Promise of wet weather and firm cables caused buying that sent prices up 1/4c and 1/2c above yesterday's close at today's opening. Later in the day prices were up 1/4c and 1/2c to 103 and 104 for December and May respectively.

Corn also was up, the wheat strength and considerable buying being the feature. Opening prices represented overnight advances of 1/4c and 1/2c. Later December was unchanged while May advanced 1/4c.

Oats followed the trend of other cereals.

Provisions opened higher on good buying, but later showed sharp declines.

Plucky Kid.

"Missus, don't you want to buy a ticket to the swimming contest at the Y. M. C. A.? It's going to be fine." The question was asked by a small boy who confronted a woman in an up-town New York street. The woman was about to say "No," when, looking at the boy closer, she was dismayed to see that both the kid's arms were cut off above the elbow.

"I'm going to swim in that contest myself. I'm going to be one of the special features. It's going to be grand," he announced pleasantly.

"You going to swim. Why?" the small boy interrupted her.

"Oh, I'm a good swimmer," he said proudly. "Of course, I can only use my legs, but I can go just as far and just as long as the other fellows. When I got my arms run over by the train I felt awful bad, 'cause I thought I could never do anything like the others. But I practiced and practiced with my feet till I could swim, and I got a prize at the Y. M. C. A. for speed."

The woman bought a ticket.

Not Likely.

"People dat puts on a whole lot o' frills," said Uncle Eben, "can't expect to have an unruffled temper."

SEAMEN'S ACT IN EVERY WAY RAISES STATUS OF SAILOR

La Follette Measure Eliminates Much of the Unpleasant Part of Sea Life

MEN ARE BETTER CARED FOR Sailors Will Be Better Paid and Life Aboard Ship Will Be More Enjoyable

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—Here is just what the new La Follette Seamen's act provides for owners, sailors and public, with the commerce department's rulings on certain sections of the law incorporated.

Section 1 compels a ship captain, short-handed during a voyage, to fill vacancies with men of the same or higher rating before proceeding. Section 2 makes nine hours a day's work in port. Section 3 provides that for every day's delay in collecting his wages, a man gets double pay.

Section 4 provides that in any port a sailor on any ship may collect half his pay or complain to U. S. custom officers and get full pay and the right to quit.

Section 5 rules that a majority of the common crew may have the ship examined for seaworthiness, or its supplies for quality, by U. S. agents. Section 6 bids goodby to the forecastle of fiction. There must be a berth for each man in a clean room drained and ventilated and with shower bath. There must be a ship's hospital.

When a sailor quits, says Section 7, he cannot be imprisoned or forced to work. For insubordination he may be placed in irons and for assaulting an officer, imprisoned two days.

Section 9 prohibits flogging sailors. If the master of a vessel fails to deliver such an offender, he and the vessel owners are liable for damages. Section 10 gives two ounces of butter and five quarts of water to each sailor, daily.

Section 11 prohibits sailors assigning wages to employment offices or saloons. Wages can be assigned only to near relatives. Section 12 prohibits garnishment of wages except by courts acting for near relatives.

Section 13 requires 75 per cent of each crew to understand officers' orders, but orders is all they need understand. Forty per cent of the crew must be able seamen. This will gradually rise to 65 per cent in 1920. An able seaman must have had three years service on the seas or great lakes.

Each lifeboat shall be in charge of an able seaman. Ships more than twenty miles from shore must have lifeboats and liferafts for all, except from May 15 to September 15, when there must be boats and rafts for 70 per cent. On the great lakes, boats for 20 per cent and rafts for 30 per cent are required. Section 15 requires any barge losing a passenger or sailor to report it.

Section 16 and 17 give foreign sailors the right to quit foreign ships in U. S. harbors. All treaties requiring U. S. officers to hunt such deserters are abrogated by Section 8. Section 19 provides that sailor ill away from home, is to be cared for by a U. S. consul.

colors, though there is some talk, say the shopkeepers, of introducing a "Joffre grey." It's a more invisible color.

Nightcaps, whose usage had begun to cease, are adding to the splendor of the newest nightdresses. Women, so intrepid as to defy Count Zep and attach the patent curlers, find the nightcap a blessed relief. The latest mode takes the form, principally, of the old Neapolitan cap, sewn of thin yet durable enough material to successfully disguise the curlers or "washerwoman's knots."

Whether the Germans know it or not, the demand for bedroom slippers runs to the fancy Turkish model. But so long as no Turkish imports are available and the brand can be made in England, there is no harm in supplying the demand, believe the London shopkeepers.

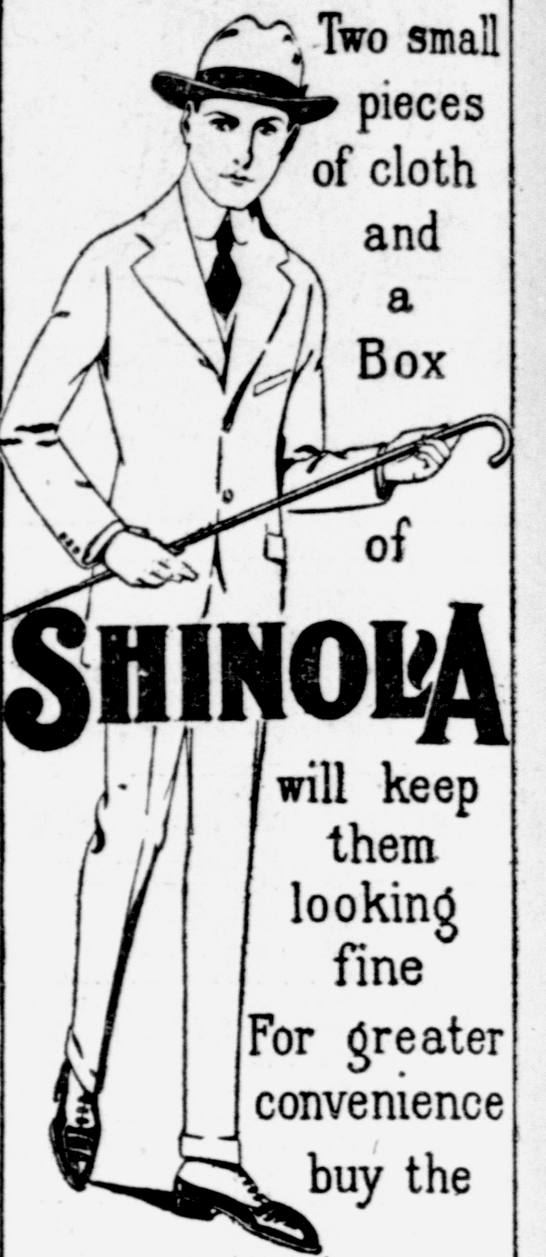

Splendid Laxative for Elderly People

Has Been Prescribed by Well Known Physician For Many Years.

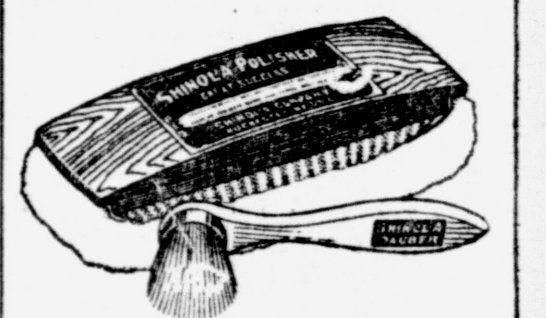

The infirmities of age are especially manifest in a tendency to constipation, and call for treatment that will afford relief in an easy, natural manner. The rapid action of cathartic remedies and purgatives that shock the system should be avoided, more especially as the relief they offer is only temporary and is usually more than offset by disturbance to the vital organs caused by their violent action.

Nearly thirty years ago Dr. W. B. Caldwell, Monticello, Ill., prescribed a compound of simple laxative herbs that has since become the standard household remedy in thousands of homes. It acts easily and gently, yet with positive effect, without gripping or other pain or discomfort. Mrs. Rachel Allen, Galesburg, Kans., is seventy-one years old, and after using a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, wrote that it had done her a world of good and that she intends to keep it in the house always. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for fifty cents a bottle. It is a splendid remedy and should be in every home. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

As much as a ton of dirt and culls is sometimes found in a car of potatoes after the wholesale merchant has sacked all that he is willing to accept. The same car would have sold for more had the dirt and inferior potatoes been left on the farm and there would have been a more vigorous demand for Wisconsin tubers on the market.

GENERAL JOFFRE EATES SNAILS WHILE IN CIVILIAN DRESS

French Commander Runs Across Soldiers from His Home Near Spain

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
PARIS, Oct. 12.—(By mail.)—General Joseph Joffre, French commander-in-chief, sometimes lays aside his uniform and goes incognito among his soldiers in the clothes of a citizen.

Joffre wishes first-hand information as to how his men are faring; whether they are satisfied with their lot; if their food is all right and their digestion O. K.

An inhabitant of Rivesaltes, Joffre's birthplace down on the Spanish border, vouches for the truth of the story his son tells in a letter just received.

Fresh from the trenches, the soldier said, he and his two friends were off duty back of the lines. Relatives had sent them 200 snails and these they prepared with Spanish peppers and other strong spices. As they began to eat, a motor car drew up and stopped. Three or four men in civilian attire got out. One of these came over to the snail-eaters.

"What are you doing there?" the stranger asked.

"Eating snails, as you can see for yourself," one of the soldiers replied in the offhand way soldiers have with "civils," adding: "If you like, you might taste them."

"I won't say no to that," exclaimed the mysterious visitor. He also "gargled" wine, in a way to make jealous the purest of the Catalans.

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "Where did you get it?"

"From a little place you never heard of," he was told. "From Rivesaltes."

"From Rivesaltes?" the stranger exclaimed. "Do you come from Rivesaltes?" "I do."

"What's your name?" The Rivesaltesian told.

WOMEN OF LONDON WEAR PYJAMAS IN FEAR OF ZEPPELINS

People of Metropolis Take Odd Measures For Preparedness For Attacks

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
LONDON, Oct. 13.—(By mail.)—London's nightshirt is a fearful and wonderful garment, and Count Zeppelin is responsible for this "nighty" revolution.

Since the Count's Zeps have been Zepping London, no self respecting Londoner has gone to bed in anything unfit for public gaze.

Tasteful blue and pink pyjamas, masculine and feminine variety, the latter beribboned and frilled, are vogue. They have almost entirely superseded the good old homely unfilled "nighty." Fancy red, blue or pink slippers to match the gorgeous "nighties" are also most proper, while it is intimated in the best circles that nightcaps—not liquid ones—have come back to their very own.

Patent hair curlers have been discarded by the women. No feminine Londoner, says good authority, will take the risk of being "Zepped" in these, at least, not in the "Zepping" season.

London shopkeepers have let the cat out of the bag. While signing a rush order for hundreds of pairs of the latest model pyjamas, the proprietor of a big London store explained:

"No stage hero in his most admired pyjamas scene is better attired today than the average 'bed-room' Londoner. Men's pyjamas are, of course, the plain article, but the feminine ones have gotten into a class of their own."

The October, 1915, model of the "feminine pyjama" comes in a pink crepe de chine, cut on a more or less mannish angle and frilled at the waist and ankles with delicately tinted silk ribbon. Another popular model composes a one piece suit with a high waist-line and a high neck. Fancy buttons adorn this model—for decorative purposes only.
